Huge Distillery on West Peachtree Is Raided

IMMENSE SUPPLY OF RYE AND CORN CAPTURED IN RAID

Elaborate System of Signals Found to Warn Operative in Event Police Try to Enter House.

ONE WOMAN CAPTURED, BUT MEN MAKE ESCAPE

18-Room House Used by Distillers—Gay Colored Labels Provided to Deceive Liquor Purchasers.

The largest and most complete whisky manufacturing plant ever raided in Atlanta was captured Friday evening by four Atlanta plainclothes officers at 207 West Peachtree street, the corner of Linden and next door to Davis-Fischer sanitarium.

Mrs. M. G. Diggs was arrested, but the distillers escaped. Nearly 400 gallons of rye and corn whisky in barrels and a dozen quarts of counterfeit Czechoslovak rye, cleverly made, 49 barrels of "mash" and "beer" and a complete distilling outfit capable of producing 100 gallons of whisky per day were captured.

A careful search of the premises was made by policemen under personal direction of Solicitor General John A. Boykin, Chief of Police James L. Beavers and Assistant Chief Jett. Laundry marks, kodak snapshots, receipts, letters, telephone numbers written on the wall beside the telephone, and other items, are expected to be of assistance in tracing the operatives and others involved in handling the whisky.

Connection Hinted.

The possibility of a connection between the West Peachtree still and another of almost equally great dimensions captured some time ago, was hinted by investigators. Possibility that people of standing might be implicated before the investigation ends was also hinted.

The quartet of plainclothes policemen L. A. Cody, J. W. Murphy, J. C. Mosely and E. C. Stegall, went to the residence in response to a telephone call late Friday afternoon from a man who refused to give his name. They secured a search warrant from Judge Hatcock at his home.

The raiders were met at the door by Mrs. Diggs, who at first denied knowledge of any wrong doing on the premises and delayed them until finally she broke into tears and admitted that whisky was being made in the house. The Linden street door of the house was guarded by one of the policemen and the other three rushed in.

The sound of feet scraping on the roof was heard as the raiders entered the house, according to Plainclothesman Mosley, and it is believed that an operative of the still made his escape over the roof, through a trap door that was open when the raiders reached the distilling plant on the third floor, a spacious single room in which the huge copper boiler and apparatus for distilling were found.

Fine Signal System.

A complicated and complete signal system was uncovered by investigators connecting the eight rooms used in the various departments of the distillery.

The entire second and third floors

Army's Best Bet In African Golf Throws "Craps"

"Dice Were Loaded Agin Me," Says Soldier Ordered From Rhine.

Coblenz, Germany, January 12.—Pity poor Corporal Cohn, the champion crap shooter of the army of occupation.

"Some one back in the States sure loaded dice agin me," was his comment when he was presented, together with the other Yanks on the Rhine, with orders to prepare to sail back to America.

Cohn, who had the good fortune to take "beaucoup marks" from his comrades, is destined to go back to dreary old Fort Sill in Oklahoma, whence he came.

The crap-shooting corporal has been the envy of all his comrades. He has been rolling down from his chateau in his own limousine, driven by his own chauffeur.

When Mrs. Allen, the wife of Major General Henry T. Allen, commander of the army of occupation, came over to visit her husband, she traveled in an army transport.

But Mrs. Cohn—Boy, howdy!

What Style!

The wife of the lucky corporal crossed the briny in the de luxe suite of the Majestic, eating noble rations all the way over.

"Home, boys, home," the famous soldier song, is now being sung by the boys who are packing up all their joys in their old kit bags. They are mourners truly mourning.

As soon as they leave German soil the Yanks—who are now among the highest paid mercenaries in history—will fall right out of step with the millionaire class.

With the lowliest buck in the rear ranks getting $33 a month from Uncle Sam all have been in the "plute" class. Each drew pay at the rate of three million marks a year, and upwards.

Germans Shed Tears.

The Rhinelanders, who will ever remember the Yankee members of the army of occupation as the "marching" soldiers, are shedding tears as they see Napoleon's famous "grumblers" tramped through Europe, will be indeed sad when Old Glory is hauled down from the heights of Julius Caesar's old fortress, Ehrenbreitstein.

"They're fine fellows," said one old German, and his remarks expressed the sentiment of nearly every one in the community. "They respect our wives and daughters and it was a pleasure to have them with us."

The merchants and inn keepers will hang mourning over their shops. "Ach, what spenders," they say.

UNIFORM STREET PAVING IS VOTED

Street Committee Rules Asphalt Pavements Must Follow National Asphalt Body Specifications.

All asphalt paving of Atlanta's streets must be in conformity with specifications adopted by the National Asphalt Association, it was voted by the newly appointed street committee of city council at its initial session Friday, following a request by Sam E. Finley, head of the local firm of Finley Construction company that the specifications be amended so as to permit use of the "Finley asphalt system."

The committee by a vote of 5 to 3 Chairman Claude Ashley casting his ballot with the minority members,

LARGE PRO-LEAGUE MOVEMENT HINTED IN WASHINGTON

League of Nations Issue Will Come to the Front in 1924, Is General Rumor.

DRIVE WILL ASSUME NON-PARTISAN ASPECT

Many Republicans Who Backed Harding as Best Chance of Entering the League Behind New Movement.

Constitution Bureau. Raleigh Hotel. Washington, January 12.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Revival of the league of nations discussion in New York this week by former Associate Justice Clarke, of the supreme court, has brought forth the suggestion from well-informed circles here that a powerful pro-league movement will be organized at an early date with the view of bringing the issue prominently to the front in the presidential campaign of 1924.

The movement, however, will not be confined to the democratic party but will take on more of a non-partisan aspect, its sponsors were quick to point out.

Active in the fight will be a number of the signers of the pro-league manifesto in favor of Mr. Harding, issued in the 1920 campaign, and the body, now being assembled, will fight the isolationists to a finish, it is declared.

Washington particularly noted the presence of Henry W. Taft, brother of Chief Justice Taft, and George W. Wickerson, attorney general under the Taft administration, at the New York meeting, which saw the launching of its movement.

It is believed that nearly all of the 31 pro-league republicans who issued the manifesto in 1920 urging the election of Mr. Harding as offering the best chance of entering the league are connected with the movement. The few who have not become associated with the enterprise are those holding official positions under the Harding administration, it is said.

Included in the latter group are Secretary Hughes, Secretary Hoover and Chief Justice Taft, who were foremost among signers of the manifesto. Whether these have given encouragement to the reopening of the league fight is not known. The presence of Mr. Taft's brother and a former member of his cabinet at the New York meeting is said to be significant, however.

Will Get Backing.

Because it is the first serious thrust of prominent leaders of both political parties in favor of the league since the 1920 election, the movement is looked upon as important not alone from the non-partisan aspect of the fight, but because it is said to reveal a judgment of leading pro-leaguers that there is now sufficient change in public sentiment to warrant reviving the issue.

It was the inability of democratic advisers to recognize any material change from the 1920 attitude that resulted in the league being relegated during the recent national elections. And even now party leaders are quick to realize the inadvisability of identifying the league issue with the democratic party. This position is concurred in by pro-league republicans.

Leaders in the new movement aim to argue with the country in favor of the league through non-political and non-partisan auspices, hoping to remove the curse of partisan politics and hatred of former President Wilson, which figured prominently in the 1920 fight.

The exact attitude which Mr. Wil-

RECALL INSPECTOR NATIONAL GUARD; KICK IS EXPECTED

Macon, Ga., January 12.—(Special.)—Lieutenant-Colonel James M. Kilbrough, of Griffin, formerly senior inspector-instructor of the Georgia National Guard troops, was ordered transferred to the Twenty-second Infantry at Fort McPherson, it became known tonight. Brigadier-General H. D. Russell, commander of the Georgia National Guard, confirmed the report.

Colonel Kilbrough, by the order, is leaving a duty to which he was first assigned when he entered the regular army service shortly after the Spanish-American war. Although it was not possible to verify the report last night, it is probable that Georgia guardsmen will make an effort to have him retained at his former post.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF NEGRO JAILED

Man Accused of Brutal Crime in Screven County Reported Under Arrest Near Denver, Col.

According to advices received Friday by Governor Hardwick, Joe Jenkins, a white man charged with the murder of Andrew Jones, an aged negro, in Screven county, has been arrested near Denver, Col.

Requisition papers were issued to Sheriff B. T. Jattard, of Bulloch county, who left Friday evening to bring back the prisoner. Judge Strange has ordered that when Jenkins is brought back to Georgia he be confined in the Bulloch county jail at Statesboro, on account of the high state of feeling in Screven county.

The crime with which Jenkins is charged was one of the most brutal in the history of south Georgia. Jones, an old negro and former slave, was called from his cabin late at night by two white men and ordered to get their automobile out of the mud where it had stuck. The aged negro was sick and feeble and was unable to do this.

Jenkins is said to have become enraged at this failure and to have slain the old man in unusually brutal manner. He was shot through the head from behind, his throat was slashed and the body thrown into a nearby open ditch. The two white men then escaped, leaving the car still in the mud.

A few days later Mims Nunnally surrendered, declaring he was one of the two men, but charging Jenkins with the crime, saying that he was seated in the automobile at the time. This statement is corroborated by several negro women, said to have been eye-witnesses of the affair.

Rewards offered for Jenkins' capture total $1,500. Governor Hardwick offered $250, the sheriff of Screven county $250, John A. Manget, of Atlanta, $500, and Mills B. Lane, of Savannah, $500.

CONVICTS ESCAPE AFTER HOLDING UP AUGUSTA GUARD

Gun Is Snatched From Guard by Convict and Retreat of Eight Men Covered.

TWO WHITE CONVICTS REFUSE TO LEAVE

Prisoners at Perry Jail Bore Way Through Wall to Freedom During Night.

Augusta, Ga., January 12.—Four of the eight convicts who escaped from the county chingang at noon today were recaptured tonight in a dense swamp six miles below the city.

Augusta, Ga., January 12.—(Special.)—Holding up the guard at the point of his own gun while they were eating dinner three miles out on the new Savannah road, eight county prisoners made their escape Friday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock. At 4 o'clock no captures had been reported.

The escapes numbered three white men, Charlie Evans, serving a term for robbing gas meters, D. B. Chapman, for burglary, and Willie Goodwin for larceny from the house; five negroes, Antone Williams, Will Gomillion, Richard Briscoe, Charlie Avery and Julius Jenkins.

Escaped During Lunch.

According to information Friday afternoon, the gang was eating dinner on the side of the new Savannah road near Phinizy's pond, when the escape took place.

Evans, who as on the gang for robbing gas meters, is said to have approached Dave Lambert, who is reported to have been in charge of the gang, as if he was going to ask a question. As he neared the guard he made a dash for Lambert's gun, which was resting across his knees. Seizing the weapon, he held Lambert up and covered the retreat of the men. Two white men of the 10 members of the gang refused to leave.

ARMY MEASURE CALLS FOR WORK AT FORT BENNING

Washington, January 12.—A standing army of 125,000 enlisted men and 12,000 commissioned officers, the same as authorized last year, is provided for in the army appropriation bill reported today to the house.

Under the appropriation for military posts provision is made for $124,875 for the continuation of construction at Fort Benning, Ga.

The bill carries $314,064,294 for military and non-military activities, or $16,010,444 less than last year. Of the total $37,000,000 goes for river and harbor projects heretofore authorized. Last year $42,815,661 was appropriated for this purpose.

TILLERY FORFEITS BOND OF $20,000

In Addition to Nine-Year Sentence Awaiting Him in El Paso, He Is Wanted in Atlanta.

An international search for Mark Tillery, former Atlantan, whose activities with the notorious Floyd Woodward bango gang in 1921 placed him in the limelight both here and in El Paso, Texas, is being conducted by federal officials, following his disappearance several weeks ago from El Paso, jumping a $20,000 bond.

Tillery was convicted of using the mails to defraud and sentenced to 9 years in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. He was released on bond following appeal of his case. At its session last Monday in El Paso the United States court of appeals affirmed the decision of the lower court. Tillery, in the meantime, is thought to have left the country and gone into Mexico.

Local Officials of the Postal Inspector's Department and the District Attorney's Office, were notified Friday that Tillery had jumped his bond. In addition to the sentence of 9 years confronting him, Tillery is wanted in Atlanta on charges similar to those of which he was convicted in El Paso. He is charged with swindling J. A. Nations, Aeworth farmer, out of $3,500 and is alleged to have used the mails to accomplish his purpose.

When arrested in El Paso, Tillery had just accomplished a similar trick, his victim being Thomas Kite, of Ransom, Kan., an aged farmer.

Local federal authorities stated that at the next term of criminal district court the indictment against Tillery would be revised, it having been filed after the El Paso court had imposed sentence upon the defendant.

SUNDAY SHOOTING MYSTERY CLEARED

Dave Perkins, 130 Julian Street, Tells Police His Uncle Shot Him After Fistic Battle.

The mystery surrounding the shooting near the viaduct over Marietta street was cleared up Friday night when Dave Perkins, a patient at Grady hospital, is alleged to have told the police that his uncle, W. F. Perkins, opened fire, following a family quarrel.

Perkins told Officer J. H. McDaniels that he and his uncle and two cousins engaged in a fist fight, and stated that when he got the upper hand of the encounter his uncle drew a gun and shot him through the thigh, and with the assistance of the combatants removed him to his home at 130 Julian street.

He was brought to Grady hospital late Sunday night. He told the authorities that he accidentally shot himself while at his home when he pulled a pistol from his pocket. Police have started a search for W. F. Perkins.

SKIPWITH ASKS HEARING IN ORDER TO VINDICATE KLAN

Declares He Will Convince Attorney-General That Organization Never Donned Black Masks.

HEARING MAY BE SET FOR TODAY

Exalted Cyclops Will Bare Operations of Ku Klux in Louisiana During Past Year.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Bastrop, La., January 12.—State's attorneys announced today that Captain J. K. Skipwith, exalted cyclops of the Morehouse parish Ku Klux Klan, has requested a conference with Attorney General A. V. Cocco and his assistants in connection with the hooded band atrocities in this parish.

At an early hour tonight the attorney general's staff had fixed no date for the conference. It is probable that it will be held tomorrow.

Reports were current here early today that Skipwith had made an open threat against the attorney general. Mr. Cocco, in a statement to the Associated Press, absolutely denied that the report was true.

The conference requested by Skipwith is to allow him to lay before the attorney general the various operations of the klans during the last year, he says in order that the organization could prove no black masks were ever worn by its members.

The following statement regarding the conference was issued by Attorney-General Cocco:

"The information was conveyed to me this morning (Friday) through members of my staff that Captain J. K. Skipwith would be glad to have a conference with me. Not having had an opportunity of seeing him during the day, due to my presence in court, I made known to Judge Barnett tonight during the supper hour that I knew of no reason why I should not grant the request of Captain Skipwith.

"Judge Barnett suggested that the conference take place tomorrow (Saturday) and I told him it would be perfectly agreeable to me."

Judge Barnett is counsel for T. J. Burnett, the first man arrested in connection with the deaths of Daniel and Richard. Burnett is in a hospital in Shreveport recovering from an attack of pleurisy.

REPARATIONS BODY TO GRANT DELAY, IS LATEST RUMOR

Say Action Will Come at France's Request, Following Passive Resistance of Germans.

HINT POSSIBILITY INTERNATIONAL MEET.

Declare Poincare May Ask Nations, Including U. S., to Work Out Settlement Plan.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Paris, January 12.—The reparations commission tomorrow will grant Germany a further delay, until February 1, in the indemnity payment of 500,000,000 gold marks due next Monday, it was forecast in reparations circles here tonight.

The decision will be taken at the request of France. Although the "official" reason is to give the French delegation more time in which to prepare moratorium conditions, it is believed the increasing indication of passive resistance by Germany to the French occupation of the Ruhr has much to do with it.

It had been decided to begin discussion of Germany's request for a moratorium tomorrow morning and to reach a decision as soon as possible, but it is thought in reparations circles that France desires to leave the question of a moratorium in suspense for several weeks more, to see what turn German events may take.

May Invite U. S.

There are many reports of the possibility of Premier Poincare arranging a meeting with the Germans, to which would be invited Great Britain, Belgium and Italy and perhaps the United States.

The purpose of such a meeting would be to try to arrange a settlement with Germany, now that France has seized guarantees which she regards as necessary to the fulfillment of any terms which might be presented to Germany. M. Poincare left he way open when he declined the proposal of Hugo Stynnes, the great German industrialist, to come to Paris after the breakdown of the recent premiers' conference in an effort to reach a direct understanding between France and the German industrialists.

If no such meeting develops, the reparations commission is expected to grant Germany a moratorium by a majority vote some time before the without being conscious of it. To a certain extent, auto-suggestion may be automatic, in the sense that it may not be inspired or guided by deliberate reflection. But how much more potent a factor it must be in our lives when we have learned its mechanism, and discovered how to make use of it for our own ends! The act of breathing is automatic; yet we can modify it will our manner of breathing; we can improve our health by learning to breathe in a certain way, and by doing regular breathing exercises. So it is with auto-suggestion. Once we realize its force and learn to control it we are the masters of our destinies. Let me give you an illustration of the automatic practice of auto-suggestion. A new born baby, in its cradle, begins to cry. Immediately its mother or father takes it in her or his arms; the infant stops crying, and is replaced in the cradle. Whereupon the crying begins over again, only to stop once more if the baby be lifted from its cradle. The operation may be repeated an almost unlimited number of times, always with the same result. The child—lacking conscious thought—is automatically practicing auto-suggestion. It obtains the gratification of its unconscious desire to be taken into its mother's arms by crying. If resisted, on the other hand, if left to cry alone in its cradle its subconscious mind will register the fact, and the baby will not take the trouble to cry, because it knows it will have no effect. And it is like that with every one, from birth to death. We live by auto-suggestion; we are governed by our subconscious mind. Happily, we are able to guide it by our reason. Like everything else, however, the science of auto-suggestion has to be learned. It is a matter of educating oneself to the point where complete control of the subconscious mind is attained. That means self-mastery. And health.

Effect During Epidemics.

Prevention is better than cure. The idea of good health begets good health, and if by accident we are attacked by disease, we are certain to have an infinitely greater chance of resisting and of rapid throwing off the malady by practicing auto-suggestion than if we knew nothing of its principles. Have you noticed this during epidemics? It is a well-known fact that persons who, in such times, go serenely about their business, not worrying for themselves, and not giving thought to the epidemic except to tell themselves that they are sure not to catch the sickness, are almost always immune and escape contagion. On the other hand nervous people, frightened by the cases around them, and allowing their thoughts to run constantly on the prevailing malady, are certain to fall ill, despite all their precautions. Amazing instances of the power of suggestion are recorded in the annals of the faculty of Paris. Professor Bouchet relates the following among many others. An old lady, after undergoing a desperate surgical operation was dying. Her son was due to arrive from India two days later. But, humanly speaking, it was impossible for her to live so long. The method of suggestion was resorted to. She was told that she was better and that she would see her son on the morrow. The result was a complete success. A fortnight later the old lady was still alive. And, from a medical point of view, that was a miracle. Equally miraculous, to all appearance, was the case of a man occupying an important position at Nancy a few years ago. He came to me suffering from sinusitis. He had undergone eleven operations, but the terrible disease continued its ravages. He was in a horrible condition, physically and morally. Day and night, without intermission, the unfortunate man was tortured by excruciating pains in the head, which prevented him from sleeping. His weakness was extreme, and his appetite non-existent. Most of the time he remained lying on a sofa. I confess that I had little hope of being able to do anything for him. However, I took pains to convince him of the efficacy of suggestion, and though there seemed to be no amelioration during five or six sittings, I could see that the man, sick as he was, had gained absolute faith in the soundness of the theories I had expounded to him. He told me he was daily directing his subconscious mind to the idea of healing his sickness. Then, one day he said he believed that he felt a slight improvement, but was not quite sure. It was the truth, however, and the improvement continued. A complete cure followed rapidly. Today that man is perfectly healthy, able to work without fatigue. The discharges from the nose which occurred daily have ceased.

Collective Auto-Suggestion.

I remember another remarkable case of collective auto-suggestion—more or less "automatic" this time. It happened in the hospital services of Dr. Renaud, in Paris. A new serum, an alleged cure for tuberculosis, had just been discovered. It had been tested on the patients. Apparently as a result of the injections, all showed an immediate improvement. The coughing diminished, and other symptoms disappeared, and the general condition of all began to be very satisfactory. Alas! Shortly afterwards it became known that the famous serum from which the patient unconsciously hoped so much was nothing but an ordinary drug which had been previously tested with negative results. At once, with the fading away of their illusions, the sick men and women lost all the improvement gained, and their old symptoms re-appeared.

Miracles happen in our time, as they have done in the past. I mean the things that are called miracles. For, of course, there is no such thing as a miracle. The modern miracle is worked by auto-suggestion, the wonderful force entrusted to us by nature, and which, if we will only probe its mysteries, shall make us all-powerful within the limits of human possibilities. Fatality, fatalism shall lose their meaning; nay, they cannot exist, save in our erring imagination. For it is we ourselves who, alone, shall shape our destinies, rising always above the external circumstances and conditions which from time to time may be thrown across our paths.

TYRE JONES DIES IN WHITESBURG

Carrollton, Ga., January 12.—(Special.)—Tyre Jones, of Whitesburg, Ga., died early this morning at his home after an illness of only a few days with pneumonia. Mr. Jones was one of the biggest farmers of Carroll county; he and his brothers owned some of the best farms on the Chattahoochee river, their holdings totalling more than 3,000 acres. He was a farmer, banker and merchant. He leaves a wife and several children, two brothers and a sister. Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

Police Search For Assaultants of B. J. Highsmith

Coroner's Jury Finds Death Was Caused by Skull Fracture.

Detectives Friday were following closely clues they had gathered which caused the coroner's jury Friday morning to find that B. J. Highsmith, confectionery and fruit dealer, of 803 South Pryor street, came to his death from a fracture of the skull, the result of an assault by parties whose names have not been learned.

Highsmith was assaulted in his store Wednesday night, dying early Thursday morning in the Grady hospital from his injuries. He was found in a semi-conscious condition by M. B. Dye, who lives across the street from Highsmith's store. Blood was coming from the left ear and Mr. Highsmith was trying to check the flow with an apron which he wore while working in the store. In his dazed condition, Highsmith, according to Dye, explained that he had hurt himself, and requested Dye to make up his bed in the rear of the store. Dye's father later found him in an unconscious condition and summoned the ambulance.

Detectives Bentley and Smith, who were detailed on the case, produced evidence from automobilists who drove up to the store just before Highsmith was found injured by Dye, to the effect that they saw a man leave hurriedly as their car approached. Robbery is believed to have been the motive for the attack. The body of Mr. Highsmith was laid to rest in Antioch cemetery Friday evening, following funeral services at the chapel Harry G. Poole at 2:30 o'clock. The services at the grave were in charge of members of the Comanche tribe, No. 6, Red Men. Two daughters survive Mr. Highsmith. They are Mrs. W. P. Upchurch and Miss Annie Highsmith.

CHRISTIAN IS TRIED ON BUNCO CHARGE

Savannah, Ga., January 12.—(Special.)—James Christian, alias Galvin French Roberts, brought here after his arrest in New York, went on trial in superior court today charged under two indictments counts with larceny after trust. He is accused of swindling, by the old race track bunco game, Gerardus Schipperoot, a native of Holland, out of $15,000 in this city several months ago. The transaction is said to have been conducted by Christian and several associates, who are not named, and began, it is said, with negotiations in Camden, S. C., being concluded in an upper room in the downtown section of this city.

Tear out this pie crust recipe
PIE CRUST (Plain)
1 1/2 cups Gold Medal Flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 cup shortening
Ice Water
Sift flour, salt and baking powder together. Cut in shortening and slowly add enough ice water to make stiff dough. Handle dough lightly and as little as possible. Bake in very hot oven at first, lowering temperature as coloring appears. This makes one two-crust pie or two one-crust pies.

For light flaky pie crusts use Gold Medal Flour

LIGHT, flaky pie crusts are not so difficult to make. Just use this recipe and Gold Medal Flour, being careful while mixing to keep all your materials and utensils cold.

Gold Medal Flour is invariable in purity, whiteness, flavor and strength. This means that every pie made will be uniform in quality.

You need not buy an expensive pastry flour. Gold Medal Flour makes pies, cakes and pastry as well as bread.

Eventually you, too, will use Gold Medal Flour to make light, flaky pie crusts.

LAW ENFORCEMENT URGED BY CIVITANS

Action Follows Address
by John Manget, in Which He Deplores Disregard for Law.

"The ever-increasing disregard for law" was declared Georgia's greatest danger by John A. Manget, Atlanta capitalist, addressing the Civitan club Friday on "Lawlessness in Georgia." He assailed the Ku Klux Klan as being responsible, directly or indirectly, for many of the criminal activities throughout Georgia and the southern states.

Resolutions placing the Civitan club on record as being in favor of strict enforcement of every law on the statute books and in favor of revision of any laws that are shown to be bad, and commending Mr. Manget for his stand, were introduced by Norman C. Miller and adopted by the club.

"Disregard for Law."

The outstanding danger to the future welfare of our great state is the ever-increasing disregard for the law," Mr. Manget declared. "Failure to enforce certain laws is breeding contempt for all law and we are speeding rapidly—yet almost unconsciously—toward anarchy."

Mr. Manget said that for a quarter of a century Georgia has led the world in lynching, and that until twelve months ago there had never been one effort to punish the perpetrators of the mob crimes. Since the organization of the inter-racial commission lynching has fallen off about 32-1-3 per cent, he said.

"I am not here to say anything to hurt any one's feelings, and yet if I were to remain silent on a most important matter I would be untrue to my subject," he said. "It is my opinion that the Ku Klux Klan is responsible, directly or indirectly, for many of the awful crimes that are disgracing Georgia and other southern states."

Attacks "Hooded Mob."

"Good men everywhere should rise up and demand that no hooded and disguised mob should be tolerated on the streets or roads of this state and that any violation should be justification for shooting to kill by any citizen whose person or property was imperiled. Georgia must no longer tolerate 'invisible government,' that proposes to take away from its citizens the right to worship God according to the dictates of one's own conscience, and the right to happiness and peace regardless of race or creed."

Lives Are Unsafe.

"There are whole groups of counties where the lives of negroes are unsafe even while passing through such sections, and it is as well known, though not much advertised fact, that the boll weevil is not all to blame for Georgia's cotton crop falling from 2,000,000 bales down to 500,000 bales, for thousands of negro cabins in Georgia are empty, and it is due to the fact that life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness guaranteed by the constitution is, so far as the negroes of Georgia are concerned, a hollow mockery and a farce. Georgia is not giving the negro a fair deal. They are in a panic in many sections of the state, and therefore are fleeing constantly to places where they may live in peace. The negro is not the only part of Georgia's citizenship that is suffering from injustice and lack of law enforcement," he said.

In Marietta, despite a great mass meeting last Sunday those foreigners are still unsettled and undecided as to whether or not their lives are safe, and they may yet flee to some city or refuge in another state. Not one arrest has been made."

J. P. MORGAN CO. MAKES HIGH BID FOR CUBAN LOAN

Havana, Cuba, January 12.—J. P. Morgan and company, of New York city, submitted today the most advantageous bid for the thirty year Cuban loan of $50,000,000 at 5-1-2 per cent, offering 90.77. Speyer and company, of New York, with an offer of 93.57 and Lee Higginson and company, of Chicago and New York, with a bid of 93.35 per cent were the only other bidders.

Acceptance of the highest bid, to be made immediately by presidential decree, is expected to be followed within a few days by receipt of a substantial portion of the loan to meet the government's most pressing needs.

MOTIVE FOR SHOOTING OF MINISTER MYSTERY

Dr. Gordon, Found Dead in New York, Was Born in Savannah.

New York, January 12.—The motive for the apparent suicide of Rev. Dr. Percy Gordon, former assistant rector of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church, whose body was found yesterday in a bath tub in his apartment in the hotel Wolcott, remained undiscovered today. There was a bullet wound in his right temple and a revolver with one empty chamber lay beneath his right hand. The contents of two letters found near the body and evidently written shortly before he shot himself, were not made public. One of the letters addressed to Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's, and the other to Dr. Gordon's son, George, an under secretary of the American embassy in Paris.

Dr. Gordon, who was about 60 years old, resigned from St. Bartholomew's about six months ago. Soon afterwards he sublet his New York apartment and sailed for Europe. Only a few of his close friends knew he had returned to America. They said he had seemed nervous and apparently was not benefited by the sea voyage.

Dr. Gordon was separated from his wife several years ago and she now lives in Florida. Born in Savannah, Ga., Dr. Gordon was graduated from the University of Virginia and for several years practiced law at Huntsville, Ala., later studying for the ministry. He was assistant rector of a church in Louisville, Ky., for five years, and of Emmanuel church in Boston for one year. He then went abroad, having charge of the American church in Geneva for a time and later, assistant rector of St. James church, North Cambridge. Returning to this country he went to New Bedford, Mass., where for almost 17 years he was rector of the Grace Episcopal church, coming to the fashionable St. Bartholomew's church in New York from New Bedford. He held a degree in law from Columbia college and that of Ph. D. from Harvard.

Spelman Seminary Head Is Delegate To Builders' Meet

Hampton, Va., January 12.—The first annual meeting of the Institute of Builders' conference, to be held here on January 29, 30 and 31, will bring together national experts who will give instructions to colored builders.

Among the prominent speakers will be R. R. Taylor, director of industries at Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., and William T. Courtney, of Spelman seminary, Atlanta, Georgia.

Dr. James E. Gregg, principal of Hampton institute, will deliver the address of welcome. Dr. W. H. Bruce is in charge of the conference. Albert Farwell Bemis, of Boston who recently donated $50,000 toward endowment of the new building, will also speak. The institute is established to establish a new department in building instruction in the Armstrong-Slater Memorial trade school. Other conference speakers will include C. Howard Walker, editor of Agricultural Review, Arthur A. Shurtleff, landscape architect; Irving H. Cowbrey, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Walter C. Allen, president of the Yale & Towne manufacturing company; Alexander B. Trowbridge, consulting engineer of the federal reserve board; George A. Ricker, of the Portland Cement Association; Dudley F. Holtman, of the National Lumber Manufacturers' association; J. C. Pearson, of the U. S. bureau of standards and Frank R. Walker, author of text books on cost accounting and estimating.

MRS. L. GAISSET, SR., DIES NEAR SPARTA

Sparta, Ga., January 12.—(Special.)—Mrs. Ludwig Gaisset, Sr., died of pneumonia following influenza at her home five miles west of this place about noon Friday, after an illness of several days. Mrs. Gaisset's advanced age is thought by physicians to have contributed largely to her inability to withstand the attack.

The deceased was one of the most cultured women in the county and was the widow of the late Ludwig Gaisset, Sr., for a long time one of the most successful and influential farmers of this section. She was a member of the Sparta Baptist church and was always a zealous worker in its cause.

Bridge built of solid mahogany 150 feet long and 15 wide, spans the Rio Michol in the state of Chiapas, Mexico.

CREW ESCAPES WHEN SHIP SINKS NEAR NEW YORK

New York, January 12.—The steamer Western Plains, inbound from Philadelphia, today rammed and sank the shipping board steamer West Calumb in the East river in a dense fog. The West Calumb, clearing for Constantinople, sank beside a pier toward which it had been driven by the force of the collision. No one was injured.

UPSHAW TURNS OVER "BOOTLEGGER LIST"

Evidence of Leakage From Foreign Embassy in Report to Haynes.

Constitution Bureau, Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, January 12.—(By Constitution Bure.)—Continuing his relentless war on bootleggers and violators of the Volstead act among government officials, Congressman W. D. Upshaw, of Georgia, today turned over to Assistant Prohibition Commissioner Jones, of the treasury department, additional evidence and information concerning alleged leakage from the foreign embassy in Washington to make Washington the Sahara of capitals. The Georgia congressman presented a partial list of his evidence to Prohibition Commissioner Haynes yesterday.

Included in the information furnished the prohibition office today was evidence of liquor leakage from embassies in Washington and evidence of bootlegging with a view to patronage in "high official quarters," Mr. Upshaw said.

He was informed by the assistant commissioner that the reports would be immediately referred to local prohibition authorities for investigation.

Solon Outraged.

"I am especially outraged by the evidence put into my hands concerning liquor leakage of some of the foreign embassies here," congressman Upshaw said, following his brief conference with Mr. Jones, "and I declare before God, the constitution and the flag that any foreign embassy that condones or connives at this sort of thing is unworthy of its position and our laws supporting it ought to be declared person non grata to the American government."

Mr. Upshaw refused to disclose the details of his evidence.

"Naturally, this evidence is of a confidential nature," he said, "and any disclosure as to details might now would help defeat the very purpose of my interview with enforcement officials."

He said he distinctly understood that in trying to do my duty in this matter, not only as a congressman but as a citizen, there is nothing of the spirit of the squealer.

Wants to Help.

"I do not wish to be ugly with my colleagues or any other officials, but my sincere purpose is to help the proper official to stop the evil practice, and I refuse to be dislodged, either by an avalanche of commendation or of criticism, from my safe, sane and unswerving position, that officials in the nation's capital and everywhere ought to set a wholesome example for the youth of America."

"I am proudly worn this white ribbon of the National Temperance union for twelve years and have engaged in debate many times with the plumed knights of liquor."

Representative Upshaw declared his position had been indicated by several members of the house who voluntarily expressed their approval of the manner in which he has conducted the fight.

EDGAR FRADY, ALLEGED SLAYER OF WIFE, DIES

Miami, Fla., January 12.—Edgar C. Frady, Chicago automobile man charged with the murder of his wife, Dorothy Frady, died at the Riverview hospital shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon.

With Frady at the time was Dr. E. K. Jaudon, one of his attending physicians.

At the hospital it was reported that he had gradually grown weaker and weaker following a turn for the worse last Tuesday night, when an abscess of the abdominal cavity developed.

Because of Frady's weakened condition, an operation which was imperative to save his life could not be performed, the attending physicians said.

"Death primarily was due to the abscess of the abdomen," Dr. Jones said this afternoon. "That and his weakened condition following the operations he underwent in Chicago for infection of the kidney were responsible. He became so weak that it was impossible to perform an operation on him for the abscess. Last week we operated on him for an abscess of the lungs and he had been given two transfusions of blood since returning to Miami from Chicago on December 11."

The first transfusion was performed on December 20, the second on December 26. In both cases nurses volunteered to give the necessary blood.

At the hospital it was said that Frady was conscious this morning but had nothing to say, as it became evident that death was near.

The crime with which he was charged was committed on February 25 in his room at the Flamingo Hotel at Miami Beach, when his wife was found shot in several places when hotel attaches rushed to the room to investigate the sound of shooting.

Mrs. Frady, in a divy statement, declared that her husband had shot her after an all-night quarrel in his room. Frady made no statement at the time, but afterwards in habeas corpus proceedings it was contended that the weapon was discharged while his wife and he were struggling for its possession.

London, January 12.—A daily edition of The Mail is to be published aboard nine Cunard liners in the Atlantic service after February 10, the newspaper announced today.

Arrangements have been made to absorb the steamship company's daily bulletin and radio news from America and Great Britain, edited by experienced men aboard the ships, which will be available to the passengers each day. The publication will be known as The Mail's "Atlantic Edition."

The five great salt-water bodies of this earth contain a total area of 140,000,000 square miles, with an average depth of two and one-third miles.

MISSISSIPPI SOLON SUED FOR $130,000

Washington, January 12.—Representative Ross A. Collins, of Mississippi, was named in a suit filed in the District of Columbia supreme court today by the Rev. James E. Arnold, of Union, Miss., a Baptist missionary among the Choctaw Indians in that state, asking $130,000 for alleged libel during the last campaign in which the latter's wife was an opponent of Mr. Collins. F. J. McKinley, special agent in charge of Choctaw Indians in Mississippi, and Thomas J. Scott, his chief clerk, were named as co-defendants.

The petition avers that shortly before the primary election, in which Mr. Collins defeated Mr. Arnold, advertisements were published in which it was stated that Mr. Arnold's mother had been a slave in Virginia. It denies this, asserting that the defendants knew he was half-white and half Choctaw blood.

The petitioner also denies another statement he says was made in the campaign against his wife, which is alleged to have set forth that he had "induced ignorant Indians, especially those with no lands, to adopt him as their heir."

The statements, Mr. Arnold added, purported to be based on records from the Indian office signed by Mr. McKinley. He charges that the three defendants entered into a conspiracy to formulate the alleged statements and that they were published so late in the campaign that he did not have opportunity to contract them from the Indian office.

October term of court: Aaron Clark, tried and convicted at the October term of court for voluntary manslaughter and sentenced to fifteen years; Clint Cherry, burglary; Walter Johnson, simple larceny; Otis Russell, burglary; Eugene Maxon, forgery; Lorett Foster, assault with intent to murder, and Yancy Brown, vagrancy.

When Mr. Woodward entered the jail this morning, he found the inmates except one, a white man, Jesse Holden, who was in the upper story corridor and says he could not get out of the corridor.

Holden says that the inmates on the ground floor worked all yesterday afternoon and early last night, and made their escape about 10:30 o'clock. He states also that an automobile came to the jail between 8 and 9 o'clock, but left before the inmates were out.

T. B. Griggs, deputy sheriff, fed the prisoners yesterday about 1 o'clock, and at that time everything was all right. Nobody went to the jail again until this morning, when the jail delivery was discovered.

Scaled Wall.

The inmates made their escape through a hole about two feet square which they made in the south wall, scaling the wall around the jail with the help of a crowbar.

The hole in the wall seems to have been made by work done inside the jail. All of the inmates who escaped were armed with guns, and the ground floor, except two, who were in their cells, they were released by the bolts being removed from their doors. The door to the jail seems to have been opened with a crowbar.

CONVICT WOUNDED

Rich Lawson, serving life for the murder of his wife, fell wounded. James Brooks, doing four months, got away.

LARGE PRO-LEAGUE
MOVEMENT HINTED

son holds in regard to the plan has not been disclosed, although it is indicated he does not share the views of democrats in congress that a league fight. At the same time he is reputed to be inclined to welcome a change in the official republican position.

Factors leading up to the pro-league movement are manifold, but are said to center around the effect which demoralized industrial conditions of Europe have had upon this country. Pro-leaguers have been greatly encouraged, it is said, by the growth of sentiment in favor of American participation in the solution of economic affairs of Europe among business men of the country.

This feeling has lately extended to the farmers of the country, it is said, because of the depressed condition of agricultural markets. The suggestion is advanced that they are at least giving serious thought to the question, although strong opposition was manifest from these quarters in 1920.

Some indication of this is taken from the attitude of Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, one of the spokesmen for middle western farmers and prominently identified with the La Follette school of thought. At the time the Borah proposal, calling for an economic conference with European nations, was before the senate, Senator Brookhart told The Constitution he was in favor of such a move, giving as his reasons the hopes that distressed agricultural conditions might be relieved thereby.

While Senator Brookhart did not declare for the league, his position separated him from the leadership of Senator La Follette, one of the senate "irreconcilables," with whom he was identified.

The activity of former Associate Justice Clarke, who has been elected president of the league of nations, is said to have hastened the launching of the present move, although the campaign was in the making already and probably would have resulted in some other undertaking, it is stated. Mr. Clarke's declarations immediately following his recent retirement from the bench tended to solidify and stimulate league advocates, the belief prevails.

Intellectuals of both parties who ardently supported the league planned to bring it to the front again at the first opportunity believing that such opportunity would present itself. This purpose caused some steps to be taken toward a non-partisan organization for the league shortly after the Harding administration came in, but did not lead to any definite action because of advice offered by pro-leaguers in the senate who urged that a more propitious time would come.

Introduction of the Washington disarmament conference acted to delay plans for a while, it is said, as the flush of apparent success of that gathering prompted the belief that world peace would be maintained by a series of progressive conferences, such being indicated from President Harding's suggestion of an association of nations.

Subsequent events, it is declared, have weakened the faith of league advocates in the success of that principle. Failure of several other international conferences since the Washington parley has strengthened this feeling.

The result has been that league advocates in position to have first hand knowledge of the world affairs have been forced to return to their original proposal, observers assert.

Just how the action of the administration in recalling all American troops from the Rhine will figure in the republican attitude has not been fully determined as yet, but some are strongly inclined to interpret the move as a desire to play entirely clear of Europe for the present. Later events, pending some form of peaceful adjustment of current conditions, may have a changing influence because of pressure from agricultural questions, it has been suggested.

newly granted delay expires. A general outline of the world affairs have for a moratorium was circulated privately today.

It provides for a two years' moratorium, with the following conditions:

1. An internal loan of gold marks, to be used partly to stabilize the mark and partly to make certain restricted agricultural products during the life of the moratorium.

2. An internal loan of German paper marks also must be raised with the purpose of meeting reduced deliveries of merchandising during the moratorium, and also to meet the cost of army occupation.

3. The budget to be balanced.

4. Comprehensive control of Germany's internal finance to be exercised by a committee of guarantees sitting permanently in Berlin; this control to be about the same as outlined in the French plan January 2.

5. Maintenance of the present position of France in the Ruhr as a guarantee of good faith in the carrying out of the conditions.

6. Further penalties to be applied if Germany fails immediately to consent to execute the conditions of the moratorium. These penalties would consist in complete occupation of the Ruhr basin and an extension of the customs cordon to territory considerably to the east of the Ruhr.

The new plan is described as being a decided modification of the French position regarding reparations; but it is taken for granted in reparations circles that the new plan is the slightest possibility that France will give up her present position in the Ruhr until Germany at least has carried out the conditions of any moratorium that may be granted.

FRENCH PLAN FOR COAL DELIVERIES.

Duesseldorf, January 12.—(By The Associated Press.)—The first day of the occupation of Essen was taken up practically in obtaining contact between the French economic missions and representatives of the German coal mine operators and steel mill owners with a view to finding a basis of co-operation in the working of the Ruhr industries.

Conferences between M. Coste, French inspector general of mines; General Devienne, superintendent of iron and steel plants, and representatives of German industries, were held both in Duesseldorf and Essen. The Essen conference was attended by delegates from both the Krupp and Thyssen plants.

Both sides were non-committal regarding the results achieved, but the feeling was expressed tonight by the Germans, and not denied by the French, that the entire success of the French occupation from the economic viewpoint depends upon the co-operation of the existing German organizations and if they decide to refrain from co-operating the entire structure of Ruhr industries will break down.

The French apparently were loath to admit it, but seemingly they realize that their technical, financial and economic efforts are not sufficient to carry out successfully their share of the work.

Want Guarantee.

From French sources it is announced that the coal operators and other industrialists attending the Essen conference are prepared to disregard the Berlin government's ruling that they must discontinue making deliveries in kind to France, Belgium and Italy on account of reparations. They will continue deliveries, it was said, but they must be guaranteed payment by France.

Paul Tirard, of France, president of the inter-allied Rhineland commission, in accord with Baron Jacquemin, Belgian member of the commission, has sent a circular to all German functionaries in the occupied territory, informing them that they are liable to the penalties prescribed by the rules of the commission if they carry out the instructions from Berlin and fail to make deliveries in kind.

These penalties prescribe dismissal or expulsion, or trial, with consequent fines or jail terms. M. Tirard's decision was based upon the German government's failure to submit its ruling for the approval of the inter-allied commission before the ruling was promulgated. Berlin is compelled to do this before any new edict or ruling can be enforced in the occupied zone.

The French officials deny that there is any intention to occupy Bochum, which is the center of the great Stinnes industries; but the Stinnes managers there say they expect occupation to be a matter of only days. Documents and account books are being removed.

No untoward incident has been reported from the newly occupied districts.

BEAVERS BELIEVES MEN UNDER ARREST
NOTORIOUS CROOKS

Photographs and bertillon measurements were made Friday morning of Leo Morris, 24, and Jim Brady, 22, two alleged desperadoes arrested by Officers H. Grady Andrews and John C. Davis Thursday evening, and will be sent broadcast under orders of Police Chief James L. Beavers, who expressed the belief that both have participated in a number of big robberies in several cities. Pictures and fingerprints will be sent to the federal prison in Fort Leavenworth, and the one here; also to the army and navy departments in Washington, D. C., as well as to all large cities.

As a result of the world war, the French pension office has received 2,500,000 claims for pensions or allowances, of which number 1,712,000 were granted.

Inspection of the postoffice department and Pinkerton detectives visited police station and examined the "egg" outfit, all agreeing that it is one of the most complete they have ever seen. When arrested both men carried automatic pistols.

MARKETING METHODS FEATURE ATHENS MEET

Many Prominent Speakers
on Farmers' Week Program, January 22-27.

Conferences on marketing will feature the sixteenth annual Farmers' week to be held at the Georgia State College of Agriculture, at Athens, January 22-27, according to an announcement by officials of the college Friday. A number of prominent men, including Carl Williams, president of the American Cotton Growers' Exchange, and President J. E. Conwell, of the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative association, will address the meetings.

Mr. Williams, head of the American Cotton Growers' exchange, which is composed of eight state cotton co-operatives, numbering more than 190,000 cotton-growing members, will speak at noon January 24 on "Co-operative Marketing of Farm Products."

Mr. Williams is one of the most eminent authorities in the south on co-operative marketing, and was the leading spirit in the organization of the Oklahoma Cotton Growers' association, the first organization of its kind in the south. He is the editor of the Oklahoma Farm Stockman, and has rendered valuable service organizing co-operative marketing associations in the southwest.

Much time will be devoted to the subject of production, and the members of the association and farmers generally will have an opportunity for gaining valuable information concerning production and marketing of farm products.

Governor-elect Clifford Walker, Dr. A. M. Soule, president of the State College of Agriculture; Roy Neal, of the Savannah Morning News; J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture; James W. Morison, state school superintendent-elect of Georgia; Mrs. J. E. Hays, president of the Georgia Federation of Women; and others will address the conference.

Reduced rates have been granted by all railroads for return trips during the conference.

WANTS NITRATE OF SODA SOLD
IN SMALL LOTS

J. J. Brown, state commissioner of agriculture, has sent a wire to both Georgia senators in Washington, asking if the war department cannot arrange to sell its stocks of nitrate of soda, in small lots, in 20-ton lots, rather than under the present ruling which requires a 100-ton minimum.

The telegram refers to press reports of a resolution offered by Senator Smith, of South Carolina, to continue the revolving fund of $10,000,000 in order that the secretary of agriculture might buy nitrate and sell it to the farmers at cost.

Mr. Brown points out that the government now has on hand large quantities of nitrate at the Old Hickory Powder Plant, in Tennessee and at Nitro, W. Va., and probably other places. It is, however, says Mr. Brown, difficult for a sufficient number of farmers to get together to make feasible the purchase of 100 tons at one time, whereas if they could buy 20 tons, or one carload, just a few of the smaller communities to pool their needs and purchase this nitrate.

Mr. Brown's telegram is as follows: "The secretary of agriculture, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C."

Notice from press that Senator Smith of South Carolina has offered resolution to continue revolving fund of $10,000,000 in order that the secretary of agriculture might buy nitrate of soda and sell to the farmers at cost. The government now has on hand large quantities of nitrate at the Old Hickory Powder Plant, Tennessee, at Nitro, W. Va., and possibly other places. It would be desirable to arrange with the war department to fix a price on this soda and sell in lots of 20 tons or one carload instead of 100-ton lots. If this could be done it would enable smaller farmers in smaller communities to pool their needs and between just a few farmers they could buy a car whereby under the present arrangements they cannot buy less than 100 tons or make a bid for less than the minimum.

Opening CONE'S New Drug Store Peachtree at Eleventh

TODAY we open at Eleventh and Peachtree the fifth member of the group of Cone's "good Drug Stores," and this is your invitation to lend your presence to the occasion that marks another forward step in the advancement of community service.

The desire to better serve our North Side friends, to afford them the same efficiency, courtesy and quality that is maintained in our down-town stores is the reason for opening the new branch in this thriving community, and we trust that all of our friends will pay us a call.

There will be something nice for the ladies. As a memento of the occasion, we will distribute appropriate gifts to the ladies who attend the opening; something useful, to be sure. Nunnally's candy, of course, in a dainty box assortment for every lady.

The Prescription Department is first in Importance

Cone's Stores would not be the "good drug stores" they are if the prescription departments were not of first importance; so, in this, as in our other stores, the rigid requirements of accuracy, quality and purity will be maintained.

"Instant dismissal is the penalty of substitution" is the rule that insures the physician's orders being followed to the letter. With registered, graduated pharmacists in charge of this department, and a complete stock of high-grade, fresh ingredients at all times, it means that your medicines will be compounded with the greatest skill and promptness.

"Approved" Marinello Beauty Parlor

One of the most interesting features is the Marinello Beauty Parlor operated in connection with, and as a department of the store. You will enjoy the conveniences of such splendid service, which embraces modern hair dressing, permanent waving, facial treatment, manicuring and children's hair cutting.

This department is conducted by Miss Freddie Mae Pittman and Mrs. Mabel Owens, assisted by experienced operators, trained at the Marinello School in Chicago.

Now it's Cone's "five Good Drug Stores"

Every department will be as completely stocked as our downtown stores. The prescription department, in charge of registered pharmacists; the rubber goods, under the supervision of a competent saleslady; the soda and ices from a new, sanitary fountain; the cigars and tobacco from modern humidors, and all other departments in the hands of friendly, courteous assistants.

Our Motor Delivery Service is Speedy

A telephone order, or the delivery, of a prescription is usually urgent, and we maintain a fleet of motor delivery cars that are geared for speed. No matter how small the purchase, we consider it important, and make delivery with all possible haste. Our phone numbers are on the back of the telephone directory for your convenience.

MAISON AND WESLEYAN.

The suggestion that is being made through the press by Representative Edward H. McMichael, of Marion county, that Wesleyan Female college might profitably be moved from Macon to Atlanta, is no doubt inspired by a deep-rooted conviction on Mr. Michael's part that Atlanta will offer Wesleyan opportunities for a broader usefulness, and that a larger and greater Wesleyan plant can thus be built.

As to whether this may or may not be true we shall not discuss. The public spirit of Atlanta is too well known, and its ability to do big things in a big way is too well established, to assume that it Atlanta should feel called upon to invite Wesleyan that it would not measure up to any reasonable requirement that might be exacted.

But will not Macon do its full part also in the proposal for a new and larger and more modern college plant?

Certainly there can be no good reason for moving Wesleyan from Macon unless that city should receive flatly to further encourage, in a proper way, its retention there.

Macon is a city of social and refined intellectual environments that are ideal for such an institution. It gave Wesleyan its birth almost a century ago, and it has seen the institution grow in power and influence and usefulness, with a keen appreciation of its value to the city and the state and the south.

The history of this great institution and its progress is almost the history of Macon and its progress, and to withdraw it would be like separating the child from its mother.

Atlanta does not covet Wesleyan; nor does it covet Mercer; nor does it covet any of the great institutions, financial, commercial and educational, that have served to make Macon a great and beautiful city, and that have prospered in the atmosphere of Macon's many advantages.

It is useless to say that if the trustees of Wesleyan prefer that the institution be withdrawn from Macon—which is evidently not the case—most assuredly the gates of Atlanta are ajar, and this city will show its appreciation by its works.

But, in our judgment, it would be a mistake, both to Wesleyan and to Macon, and there is no doubt that there will always be a spirit of helpful co-operation on the part of the city of Macon, and her excellent people, that will give to Wesleyan—one of the grandest institutions in the south—not only a new lease on life, but will raise the curtain to a future rich with new and useful opportunities and possibilities.

QUICK RELIEF.

Thursday morning's Constitution carried the story of the illness and constitution of a family in Atlanta, the father and provider having been stricken with the white plague, the mother being down with influenza, and three small girls suffering from the want for food.

Friday morning's Constitution carried the story that thirty employees of the Central of Georgia yards had raised a purse of $24.10 "in fifteen minutes," which was supplemented by a $5 contribution from a lady, thus providing temporary relief at least for the distressed household.

The generous spirit of those who responded so quickly and cheerily to the relief of this family is to be highly commended, and is illustrative of the big heart of Atlanta that always responds when succor is needed to meet the call of real distress.

This was illustrated during the recent holiday season when readers of The Constitution contributed approximately $3,000 to the "ten opportunities" for carrying Christmas to needy homes—the contributions exceeding the demands of the ten opportunities and providing for an eleventh, which was quickly found.

Especially commendable is the present action on the part of a group of wage-earners, who are not capitalists—but who are no less philanthropists to the extent of their means.

THE SOUTH IGNORED.

President Harding, on Friday, sent to the senate nomination for the two agencies on the federal reserve board, the seat of the former governor, W. P. G. Harding, of Alabama, going to Ohio, and the "dixie farmer" seat, recently provided by congress, going to Michigan.

This leaves the great agricultural south, today the most important unit in the industrial life of America, entirely without representation on the federal board, which is entirely in violation of both the letter and the spirit of the reserve act.

This law, passed during the Wilson administration, specifically provides that each section of this country shall be represented on the board.

It is not a political organization in any sense, and the board is supposed to be made up of men without the slightest regard to their party affiliations. To the same degree it was intended by its framers that the sections of the country should be as nearly as practicable equally represented, without regard to the political expediencies of such appointments.

It is unfortunate that President Harding should not have recognized the south in one of these appointments. In ignoring the south, however, he has simply accentuated the policy he has also pursued in filling the vacancies on the supreme court bench.

DIED COUNTRYLESS!

The death of the exile in Sicily, Constantine, the former king of Greece, removes from his earthly sorrows one of the most contradictory figures in the political life of Europe in a generation.

Trained a soldier, under the strict Prussian military system employed by the cadet schools of Germany, he became a warrior of dashing ability, and in his campaigns against the Turks his personal leadership on the fields, even after he ascended to the throne, made of him for a time a popular idol in his own country.

But in the great world war, in which Greece's only hope was in the allied powers, his devotion to Germany and the central powers was undisguised. This personal affinity for the cause of the Kaiser's armies overstepped, it was observed, the natural tendency of his wife, Sophia, who is a sister of the former German emperor.

This position of his king was tolerated by the people of Greece until it became known that Germany had established submarine bases in Greek waters. This secret and intriguing aid to the central powers became so pronounced, and so intolerable that the entente felt called upon to lay an embargo on imports to Greece. This caused suffering but it forced the hand of the people of Greece, who began to drop from Constantine's leadership, and to demand his abdication.

His exile was forced in the face of a spectacular drive in which he showed all of his old-time military bravery, but little or no deep concern for the interests of his country, and an utter lack of the "ideals of statesmanship."

And as might have been expected—a sequence that was inevitable in the premises—he passed a homeless, countryless, disappointed and unhappy.

CORN AT A PROFIT.

On this page is a communication from G. V. Cunningham, of Athens, Ga. Boys' Club agent, telling of recent prize winners among the Corn club boys.

One of these, Augustus South, of Carnesville, raised 138.62 bushels to the acre, at a profit of $118.68; another, Leo Mallard, of Statesboro, raised 125 bushels to the acre, at a profit of $102.50.

The point is, these illustrations are unmistakable evidences that corn can be grown profitably, as a money crop, in Georgia.

And while cotton will always continue the major money crop of the south, the fact cannot be escaped that under present weevil conditions, cotton must be made a surplus, and to that end must be cultivated intensively—in greatly reduced acreage. The necessity, therefore, for the cotton farmer to raise his own food and feed crops is compelling; and the demonstrations made by these Georgia boys speak more forcibly than words the possibilities in corn production.

In this connection the value of club work among the boys and girls cannot be over-estimated, nor can there be too much encouragement given to their promotion along correct, constructive and educational lines.

Just in Passing!

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

Washington news dispatches say that Congressman William D. Upshaw, of Atlanta, has given to the head of the prohibition enforcement division of the government the "names of colleagues in congress who he knows or has reason to believe have violated the Volstead act."

That is to say, he has "squealed" upon congressional associates whom, by virtue of his position as a congressman, and his participation as such in the almost unending social obligations with which congressmen are invested, he has seen "or has reason to believe" have engaged, at one time or another, in the very distressing crime of taking a drink of liquor.

It is unthinkable!

And I don't believe it!

Congressman Upshaw is a "dry"—a voting "dry" and a practicing "dry"—and for his views, and for his personal consistency, he has, and should have, the undoubted respect of his colleagues, and of every right-thinking man and woman in this country.

That he has become a leader among the ultra-"dry" forces in congress, being the spokesman for the Anti-Saloon league, with whom he is associated in a lecturing capacity, is a matter of pride, perhaps, among his thousands of friends who believe that this league should continue as an arrogant, bullying, intimidating influence in congress, and that the hands of administrative officials, dealing with all summary laws of the land, should be guided by invisible government.

But public sentiment condemns—indeed it hates the "informer," who violates the ethics of comradeship; and who takes advantage of the confidences of comradeship to "turn up" a buddy for some infraction of rules—or even of law.

Surely Upshaw hasn't done anything of this kind.

Go to the picture show and see the stalwart young man step into the great outdoors from the walls of a prison.

He has paid a debt to society for the indiscretions of a misguided youth.

In the solitude of a just punishment the spark of manhood that smolders in the breast even of the criminal is fanned into a blaze that burns a veritable path of righteousness through the jungles of his old-time environments.

He secures honest employment.

His influence is for good.

He atones, as best he can, quickly, by an unrelenting will, and guided by a merciful God.

And then the detectives who knew his past, under threats of exposure that will mean humiliation and the loss of confidence reposed in him, attempt to coerce him into "squealing" upon his former comrades.

He refuses.

"No power on earth can snatch me from my determination to go straight," he says, "but I will die before I will betray my old associates."

And the house rings with applause—the popular voice that registers the opinion of the street, the home, the office, the counting room, the drawing room—the opinion that is more representative than that of any other group on earth.

Take the other side of this picture. We see the detective who catches him shielding a dying brother who had repented.

He is led into a trap through a tissue of falsehoods and protestations of friendship and immunity.

The steel cuffs again manacle the wrists of an innocent man.

Again the house—the same unmistakable expression of popular sentiment—registers its opinion. And hisses voice the disgust at the outrage of betrayed confidence.

Everybody who has seen Willard Mack's "Kick In," or Berger's screen version, will recognize this picture, and no playwright ever appealed more to popular appraisements of situations in life that are all too true.

There is nothing particularly analogous, in these fancies of the playwright, to the subject matter of this discussion, but they do illustrate a fact that is as undeniable as the law of gravitation.

The world hates a "squealer!"

I cannot, for the life of me, believe that our Atlanta congressman, for whom I have the greatest admiration for his sterling character, will so far forget the proprieties of his own position as a lawmaker, and not a self-constituted "squealer," as to carry to the prohibition enforcement division of the government names of his own comrades in congress who may have taken a drink since the 18th amendment went into effect, and who may, or may not have violated the Volstead act in doing so.

Of course bootlegging should stop. There is no argument among right-thinking people on that point.

Officials of the government, whether members of the cabinet, or members of congress, or department or division heads, should respect the prohibition laws.

Every person should be law abiding, whether in official or private life.

But the way for a congressman, who is charged with the responsibility of law-enacting, to stamp out violations of the Volstead act, which are flagrant and disgraceful, not only in the District of Columbia, but in Georgia and in every other state in this country, is to so revise the law that the contradictions and inconsistencies be removed thereby encouraging a popular respect for it, which any law must have to become effective.

And then to strengthen by law the enforcement arm of the government so that there shall be either full responsibilities of enforcement vested with the federal authorities, or a system of co-ordination provided by which there may be concerted harmony between federal and state officials.

As the situation stands today, with "confiscation" the most compelling incentive in so-called prohibition enforcement; with different interpretations of a weak and flexible and vacillating law possible in every state and court jurisdiction; with openings and opportunities innumerable for saturating the enforcement machines with vice and corruption, there is a natural disrespect for the law that has made conditions almost intolerable throughout the nation.

The remedying of this by law is a lawmaker's function—

And when a member of congress goes beyond this, and attempts to "regulate things" by handing over the names of a few congressmen or others, as for that matter, who he alleges have violated his own interpretation of the law, he has not only overstepped every propriety of comradeship, but has seriously injured the great cause he is endeavoring to serve.

Again, it is unfair—in the face of the published reports—that Atlanta's congressman has fallen into this trap that his own enemies set for him.

As a matter of serious fact—

The voters of the Fifth district sent Upshaw to congress to work for the best interests of this district and state, commercially, financially, industrially and agriculturally, which must be strengthened and fostered by good and constructive laws.

They did not send him to Washington to become a prohibition "informer" upon his colleagues in congress, and to "turn up" a few of his buddies to Chief Haynes!

If the press dispatches are true, which I shall doubt, I fear too much publicity has had a distressing effect upon our friends.

Personal exploitation is like the credit system—it opens wide the vista to great things, but it is merciless when abused.

In the meantime I shall maintain that the press dispatches have misled the public as to what Upshaw did really turn over to Haynes, "for action."

I have no apologies to make for this position, which I personally hold and for which I alone am responsible.

Atlanta's congressman has no stronger friend or more loyal supporter than I am.

He knows it!

The people of this district who have seen the support I have given him through three campaigns know it.

Perhaps he may be right, and I may be wrong, even if the news dispatches have reported his actions correctly.

But right or wrong, I have my own views about this "stool pigeon," "squealing" business which I do not hesitate to express, even if all the Anti-Saloon league fanatics in America feel differently about it.

I want the prohibition laws enforced, but I believe in enforcing them through legally constituted enforcement channels.

Let me say further—

If the Anti-Saloon league, which has long ago served the very laudable purpose for which it was organized, will withdraw its "big stick," high-salaried lobby—maintained by the free will offerings of the people—from Washington, and leave to the constituted authorities the question of law enforcement, without so much agitation and disquieting interference, the results will be better—and prohibition enforcement will be improved all over America.

Confession in U. S. Court Admissible In Georgia Courts

A recorded confession of guilt in the federal courts may be used against a defendant in the state courts, according to a ruling handed down Friday by the Georgia court of appeals. The case involved the conviction of W. F. Outz, Sr., and W. F. Outz, Jr., Outz, Sr., had entered a plea of guilty in federal court to a charge of having liquor in his possession. He and his son, Outz, Jr., were indicted and convicted in the Thomas superior court.

Justice Lake dissented from the opinion holding that the confession of the father should not have been used as evidence against the son.

MISTAKES OF THE KAISER

AN ANSWER TO THE KAISER'S MEMOIRS

By RENE VIVIANI

Premier of France When War Broke Out

GERMAN EFFORTS AT VINDICATION

The wording of the German declaration of war has been given.

Alleging as a pretext that French aviators had flown over Nuremberg, Germany, and then had been shot down, France invaded the world.

And, in order to preserve moral continuity in her history, it was again by means of a falsification that official Germany sent millions of men to their death.

The burden of this disgrace devolves, first, upon the Kaiser, next upon those co-workers who, under the name of the Kaiser, actually signed the declaration of war.

Herr von Bethmann, and especially Herr von Jagow, who had the audacity to transmit over his signature to the entire world that final outrageous crime against truth. The world knows how false that legend about French aviators is; it knows that the false allegation was officially admitted as such by Germany, that witnesses on the spot protested against it, that no aviators flew over Nuremberg.

Hence it was urgently necessary that a more solid foundation be found for the declaration of war, so the necessary yarn about French raids into German territory was invented, just as the other one had been.

The grave and virile message of the president of the French republic, followed by the declaration in which I set forth the position of France, met with unanimous approval both in the chamber and the senate.

A free and strong nation, which fights for an ideal rooted in the centuries and unites, in its entirety, to protect its existence; a democracy which has been able to keep its military strength within the bounds of discipline and did not fear a year ago, to increase the burden of that strength in order to counter the armaments of a nation in arms fighting for its very life and for the independence of Europe—these are what have the honor of showing the witnesses of this tremendous struggle, for which preparations had been making for days, amid the greatest calm and in the most methodical manner. We are without reproach, armed conflict and promiscuous carrying of firearms by individuals, although it will in no way affect the right of private individuals or firms to sell arms.

The state department, it was stated, recently was approached by a "business diplomat," who wanted to purchase 500,000 rifles for a European power not involved in the present reparations crisis.

When Mr. Harding was informed of the tentative proposition, he not only expressed his disapproval but issued orders against such sales in the future.

The name of the government for whom the arms were intended was withheld.

Downtown crowds were thrown into a near panic Friday night when Will Thurmond, negro, 77 North Pryor street, was shot and killed by a negro gunman, following an argument in front of a department store on Whitehall street.

A melodramatic flourish was added to the shooting when J. A. Davis, 108 Whitehall street, pursued Thurmond's assailant and captured him after a hot chase through nearby alleys.

The slayer was turned over to the police, and at headquarters gave the name of Will Dennis. He refused to make any statement, and was locked up without a murder charge.

Thurmond died in the Gandy ambulance a few minutes before the hospital was reached. He was shot through the abdomen.

FUGITIVES CAPTURED

Escaped From Atlanta Prison Last May.

Muncie, Ind., January 12.—(Special.)—After a sensational chase of several blocks through the residence section of the city, during which Detective Fred Puckett emptied his revolver, a pair of fugitives, Harry O. Durke, of Muncie, a prisoner escaped from the United States penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., was captured when he took refuge in an outbuilding.

A short time later the police captured Robert Brown, Durke's partner in the prison escape, when they went to his home here. Brown was caught as he attempted to dash from the house.

Durke and Brown escaped from the Atlanta prison on May 3, 1922, and have been in Muncie on several occasions since then, the police were informed, but until today neither one had been seen by the police. In July, 1922, the two were sentenced to 10 years imprisonment in connection with the robbery of freight cars.

They were tried before Judge A. B. Anderson, in federal court in Indianapolis, the Atlanta authorities have been notified.

Federal prison officials at Atlanta were unable to give any information relative to the capture of the two men.

Wrens Masons Install.

Wrens, Ga., January 12.—(Special.)—At a regular communication of Wrens lodge, 835, P. & A. M., the following officers were installed: H. G. Adkins, W. M.; A. S. Brown, S. W.; L. S. Caldwell, J. W.; B. P. Ayers, treasurer; C. S. McCleskey, secretary; W. J. Williams, C. G.; A. Parish, S. D.; G. L. Rogers, J. D.; B. J. Joiner, S. S.; B. Powell, J. S.; T. C. Wren, T.

In the afternoon, after the council, I was bound for the chamber the deputy, when, at 2 o'clock, the telephone bell rang. Mr. Paul Cambon, our ambassador at London, informed me that the British government had authorized him to express in stronger terms than before his friendly attitude toward France; I immediately added to the declaration I was preparing some sentences bearing on the agreement of 1912.

When I arrived, the members of the chamber, all standing, all magnificent in their bearing, according to me, the French premier, the unforgettable token of the enthusiasm and emotion which they felt. It was not for me, but for glorious France, about to enter the arena, that this storm of acclamations arose. The fact that, during those terrible days, I bore aloft the banner of France and kept it aloft

"So are our two nations to fight on equal terms, as a sort of pact." "I would respectfully call to your attention that England has a different conception of honor."

Why did not Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg take France and England to task on that day for the alleged plans for violating Belgian neutrality which he, of course, invented when victory seemed to him less of a foregone conclusion?

As for France, she stood erect, calm and resolute, having done all that was possible to avoid war, and having, throughout, no long periods of facing the worst peril.

HARDING PUTS BAN ON SALE OF ARMS

European Nation Is Refused Ammunition, Says Official Report.

Washington, January 12.—No arms will be sold to any nation or individual by the American government during President Harding's tenure of office, it was stated officially today at the white house.

By such a policy, it was explained, the president hopes to discourage armed conflict and promiscuous carrying of firearms by individuals, although it will in no way affect the right of private individuals or firms to sell arms.

The state department, it was stated, recently was approached by a "business diplomat," who wanted to purchase 500,000 rifles for a European power not involved in the present reparations crisis.

When Mr. Harding was informed of the tentative proposition, he not only expressed his disapproval but issued orders against such sales in the future.

The name of the government for whom the arms were intended was withheld.

Downtown crowds were thrown into a near panic Friday night when Will Thurmond, negro, 77 North Pryor street, was shot and killed by a negro gunman, following an argument in front of a department store on Whitehall street.

A melodramatic flourish was added to the shooting when J. A. Davis, 108 Whitehall street, pursued Thurmond's assailant and captured him after a hot chase through nearby alleys.

The slayer was turned over to the police, and at headquarters gave the name of Will Dennis. He refused to make any statement, and was locked up without a murder charge.

Thurmond died in the Gandy ambulance a few minutes before the hospital was reached. He was shot through the abdomen.

FUGITIVES CAPTURED

Escaped From Atlanta Prison Last May.

Muncie, Ind., January 12.—(Special.)—After a sensational chase of several blocks through the residence section of the city, during which Detective Fred Puckett emptied his revolver, a pair of fugitives, Harry O. Durke, of Muncie, a prisoner escaped from the United States penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., was captured when he took refuge in an outbuilding.

A short time later the police captured Robert Brown, Durke's partner in the prison escape, when they went to his home here. Brown was caught as he attempted to dash from the house.

Durke and Brown escaped from the Atlanta prison on May 3, 1922, and have been in Muncie on several occasions since then, the police were informed, but until today neither one had been seen by the police. In July, 1922, the two were sentenced to 10 years imprisonment in connection with the robbery of freight cars.

They were tried before Judge A. B. Anderson, in federal court in Indianapolis, the Atlanta authorities have been notified.

Federal prison officials at Atlanta were unable to give any information relative to the capture of the two men.

Wrens Masons Install.

Wrens, Ga., January 12.—(Special.)—At a regular communication of Wrens lodge, 835, P. & A. M., the following officers were installed: H. G. Adkins, W. M.; A. S. Brown, S. W.; L. S. Caldwell, J. In the afternoon, after the council, I was bound for the chamber the deputy, when, at 2 o'clock, the telephone bell rang. Mr. Paul Cambon, our ambassador at London, informed me that the British government had authorized him to express in stronger terms than before his friendly attitude toward France; I immediately added to the declaration I was preparing some sentences bearing on the agreement of 1912.

When I arrived, the members of the chamber, all standing, all magnificent in their bearing, according to me, the French premier, the unforgettable token of the enthusiasm and emotion which they felt. It was not for me, but for glorious France, about to enter the arena, that this storm of acclamations arose. The fact that, during those terrible days, I bore aloft the banner of France and kept it aloft

"So are our two nations to fight on equal terms, as a sort of pact." "I would respectfully call to your attention that England has a different conception of honor."

Why did not Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg take France and England to task on that day for the alleged plans for violating Belgian neutrality which he, of course, invented when victory seemed to him less of a foregone conclusion?

OUTLINES REMEDY FOR CAR SHORTAGE

S. Davies Warfield Says Central Clearing House Agency Is the Need of Carriers.

Cincinnati, Ohio, January 12.—Declaring that the main reason for railroad car shortage is largely financial and will recur at periods of sudden business revival until a central clearing house agency, of and for the railroads, is established and authorized by congress to supply, among other purposes, the means to give financial effect to the power now granted the interstate commerce commission to require all railroads to supply their quota of equipment to properly conduct transportation as a whole, S. Davies Warfield, of Baltimore, president of the National Association of Owners of Railroad Securities and also the Seaboard Air Line railway, discussed at length here today, "Car Shortage—The Permanent Remedy."

"Railroads that are unable to finance their requirements in freight cars of the class and number determined to be their proportion of the whole amount essential to the conduct of transportation, cannot be required to supply them unless the financial means is provided, which neither the commission nor the existing car service agency, the American Railway association, can supply," said Mr. Warfield.

The address was delivered at the third day's session of the 31st annual convention of the National League of Commission Merchants to which had been invited members of the chamber of commerce of Cincinnati, the chamber having asked Mr. Warfield to also appear before that body.

"There are five fundamental causes that produce car shortage," said Mr. Warfield, "they are largely of financial origin and are as follows: "First, that each carrier has not furnished, both as to class and amount, its quota of car equipment in proportion to the total requirements of transportation, as a whole; second, that every carrier has not secured as high efficiency out of the existing service as other carriers; third, that there has never been put in effect standardized plans under which freight cars shall be purchased, produced a better supply, more extended use and wider distribution of certain classes of interchange freight cars now in service or to be put in service; fifth, that freight yard and terminal facilities are not used or being constructed such as will jointly operate to quickly handle and unload and return cars for reloading."

"Failure to provide for any one of them," he declared, "may create car shortage, but failure in all produces and has continued at times to produce through series of years' demoralization and loss among shippers."

Shows Remedy.
The remedy, Mr. Warfield showed, was through the central clearing house agency proposed—the National Railway Service corporation—for the federal incorporation of which a bill now before the senate committee on interstate commerce. He showed how this agency of the railroads would finance rebuilt as well as new equipment, supply the means for a comprehensive survey of the equipment and car service of the country and make effective determined necessities.

The railroads have competent presidents and operators, he said, existing conditions being due to the lack of a co-ordinating clearing house agency to knit together inter-carrier relations with the benefits of administration of transportation as a whole, without encroaching upon any individual railroad's rights.

"You have your central organization," he said; "Cincinnati, its chamber of commerce, its banks, their clearing house, so have all large cities. The country the federal reserve system, a national clearing house, preventing financial panics. What have the railroads," he asked.

"They have greater need of such a clearing house agency to prevent car shortage panics."

The board of trustees of the Service corporation would be composed of railroad officials selected by rail and from the four groups of railroads in the four rate-making districts of the country, together with others such as manage the present Service corporation, officials of large public investment institutions—life insurance companies and savings banks.

A paper was recently issued by a committee of the existing railroad car service agency, Mr. Warfield said, which stated that the proposals of the Association of Security Owners would take over car shops of the railroads and do other things which would take from the railroad managements their property. Waiving aside these statements as a desire to permit existing conditions to continue, Mr. Warfield showed wherein no such purpose was ever contemplated in any suggestions made before congress or elsewhere.

"The sole answer to our insistence that these matters be subjected, through a central clearing house railroad agency such as suggested, to a definite study along lines of our general recommendations to be conducted by those who would be considered the most competent car service and transportation men in the employ of the American railroads and who would be available under the proposals made," said Mr. Warfield, "is merely that of opposition and what appears to be a fixed determination to misunderstand the proposals we have made."

In closing, Mr. Warfield warned his hearers that failure by the railroads to conduct the central clearing house railroad agency, by act of congress, under their own auspices and so manifestly essential, must inevitably result in its establishment under government direction which meant government operation and finally ownership, with all its ills. He urged the shippers to co-operate with the association of security owners to avoid this.

DIVORCE DECREE TO LOIS WEBER IS MADE PUBLIC

Los Angeles, Cal., January 12.—Lois Weber, motion picture producer and founder and head of the Lois Weber Productions, was granted a divorce from Phillips Smalley, June 24, last, in the Los Angeles superior court, one day after she filed her complaint but knowledge of the case became public only yesterday, according to the Los Angeles Examiner.

One of the papers in the case which the Examiner describes as "remarkable" particularly as to speed, asked for hearing "as speedily as possible and with as little publicity as can conveniently be done."

The complaint was entered under the title of "F. L. Smalley vs. W. P. Smalley." Smalley is generally called Phillips Smalley. Miss Weber, who was called Mrs. Smalley, was charged Smalley with habitual intemperance, which he denied.

SKIPWITH ASKS HEARING ON KLAN

the words be used—the best I can remember.

Norsworthy is a brother of J. T. Norsworthy, who testified that he was a former klansman and "captain" of the Morehouse chapter of the K. K. K.

Will Norsworthy declared he was not a klansman. He explained that his conference was to ascertain the authenticity of a report that he had been accused of agreeing to accept $1,500 to kill Skipwith and Dr. McKinn.

"Skipwith told me it was lucky for me that I had friends in this country," Norsworthy said.

"I asked him about the kidnapping report. He said he had a letter that I had been hired by citizens of Mer Rouge to kill him and Dr. McKinn."

"Captain Skipwith said he had investigated and found the report untrue. He said that the time there were six men in Arkansas spotting me, I had just returned from a trip to Arkansas before the conference."

The witness continued that he had been informed by friends at Spencer, La., that "Dr. McKinn with guns and two friends were there looking for me."

"Did Skipwith say that the boys had killed themselves?" Howard Warren, special assistant attorney general, asked.

"No, he didn't," Norsworthy answered.

Declares Masks Used.
The testimony of Norsworthy with statement of Robert L. Dade and Kelly Dade that black masks were used by a Klan band on a march to the village of Stamperly early last summer and the testimony of Joseph Davenport, former Rouge merchant, were high lights of the day's proceedings.

Dade said he wore a black mask furnished him by Edward Ivy, a fellow klansman, when he was picked up in Mer Rouge and asked to accompany the band on a trip to Stamperly to investigate a report that a negro was operating a gambling house there where both white men and negroes gambled.

Dade said Dr. McKinn also was a member of the raiding party. McKinn, Dade said, was garbed in white. "Harp declared he wore a black mask also on the raid."

It was on this march that the party met Watt Daniel, W. C. Andrews and Harry Neelis who testified yesterday as to being "held up" by the Klan band.

"Did they favor whipping the boys," Harp was asked with reference to Daniel, Andrews and Neelis.

"Dade, I and others did not favor it," said Harp, "but the majority did."

The three men were not whipped, but were lectured, according to previous testimony.

"Was Captain Skipwith there?" was the next question.

"I positively refuse to answer," said Harp.

Harp declined to name who appointed him on a committee to pick up of klansmen to deport Addie May Hamilton, but he said, "the man who appointed me told me he would take me to the master with the proper authorities of the Klan."

Davenport testified at the afternoon session of the hearing.

"My family has resided in the Mer Rouge district of Morehouse parish for 117 years," Davenport asserted. "I lived in peace until the advent of the Klan. We then had to get permission from high authorities of the Klan to continue our residence in our old home town."

Davenport was called to testify because of conferences held by citizens of Mer Rouge, Bastrop and officials of the Ku Klux Klan relative to his brother, Hugo Davenport, having been accused of being an "anti-klan" leader.

Agreed to "Lay Off."

After a lengthy conference, Davenport, said Captain Skipwith had agreed to "lay off" the Davenport family, but insisted that three other citizens, A. C. Whipple, Tom Milner and Walter Campbell, of Mer Rouge, would have to get out of the state because of their anti-klan activities.

"Milner left before we could vouch for him," said the witness. "I vouched for Whipple and W. L. Pugh vouched for Campbell. We were held personally responsible by Captain Skipwith for these men."

told them he did not know anything about it.

No announcement was made tonight as to what witnesses would be called tomorrow. It is anticipated that the hearing will continue for at least two weeks.

JUDGE ALRAIGNS NEWS REPORTERS.

Bastrop, La., January 12.—Today's proceedings in the open hearing investigation of masked band activities in Morehouse parish was enlivened by a statement from the bench by Judge Fred L. Odom after an investigation of an item published in several papers yesterday with reference to the finding of what was alleged to have been an indentation made by a bullet in the door of an automobile owned by W. C. Andrews, one of the state's witnesses.

Judge Odom took exception especially to newspaper headlines which asserted that an attempt had been made to assassinate Andrews.

Andrews had testified that he could not say when the mark was made, but that it was called to his attention Wednesday. He declared that the automobile had not been in use except at intervals for a week or more.

"I want to say with reference to the matter that the only interest I have in it is to find out definitely whether or not our witnesses have been interfered with," Judge Odom said.

Court's Business.
"It is the court's business to find out and it is everybody's business to notify the court when an attempted interference is made with our witnesses. If there is any interference, any intimidation or any threats of any kind made against any witness by anybody, I am going to exert every power that the state of Louisiana permits in not only detecting but punishing the party who attempts to interfere with a witness."

"I think there has been too much talking and too much writing about this little matter, and I want to say to you, gentlemen of the press, that I do not think you are necessary adjuncts to this investigation. You are here by courtesy, gentlemen. I welcome you. I have no objection to your being here. But I am going to expect a different course from you in the future."

"I regard any attempt to color this testimony or to color the statements of anybody with reference to matters of this kind as an interference with the witnesses who come to this court. I have said that we are not going to have any interference. Now, you gentlemen can go so far, but I would suggest that you be cautious about coloring these matters."

Lays Responsibility.
"You say you don't control the headlines. You are responsible for what goes in your papers, gentlemen, and any report that goes out through the newspapers or otherwise that witnesses have been fired upon from ambush or otherwise tampered with or interfered with—I say any report that goes out, any talk of that kind, is, in itself, an interference with the witnesses, in that witnesses will not want to come to court if they are going to be assassinated."

"I am going to deal with anybody who circulates such reports, or causes the circulation of them, as I will with anybody else who interferes with the witnesses in any other way. I don't want the witnesses interfered with."

At the conclusion of Judge Odom's remarks, spectators occupying seats in the court room and in the galleries broke out with loud handclapping and other manners of applauding. The court had to rap for order.

When court recessed for the day a conference was held between Judge Odom and the 20 or more newspaper men in attendance at the hearing. The matter was thoroughly discussed and a satisfactory settlement was reached.

At the conclusion of Judge Odom's remarks, spectators occupying seats in the court room and in the galleries broke out with loud handclapping and other manners of applauding. The court had to rap for order.

Floyd Johnson Finds Bill Brennan Easy Picking

Young Pugilist of Iowa Moves Step Nearer Bout With Champion Dempsey

Westbrook Pegler Discovers That Johnson Possesses Qualities That Might Send Him to High Position.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

United News Staff Correspondent.

Ringside, Madison Square Garden, N. Y., January 12.—Floyd Johnson, one time of Iowa, later of California and now of New York's West Side, won a decision over Pat Bill Brennan at the end of 15 rounds of mauling and hammering in the Garden ring Friday night. This advances Johnson a step further toward a fight and a rich loser's end, at least, with Jack Dempsey, but it was no particular compliment to Floyd that he beat old Bill.

Larry Williams came into the ring with a neat display of fat dancing over the rim of his tight and before the second round was through he was whistling like a coast guard buoy off the Chelona banks on a moon night in midwinter. His breath came short and his knees went silly, and a fighter with a wallop could have put him on his back for an eight-hours nap.

Larry Bill tried pretty hard to claw some holes in Johnson's middle, but in justice to the new boy, it must be said that he had a fair barricade of elbows around his pantry and enough concrete in his jaw to withstand the best of Brennan's smashes in the region of the whiskers.

It was one of those mussy, mauling, close-in fights. Though, a fight in which neither man did any brilliant knocking or sparring, and no clean smacking.

Jim Disappointed.

Jim Corbett, who sat at the ringside, said he came all the way from New Orleans, where the buses are running the right way on track, to catch a glimpse of a new left hand which he had been told was Johnson's proudest possession. He hiked away to catch a midnight train very low in spirit, considering his railroad fare from the Gulf coast and the sight he saw for his money.

Tommy Gibbons, of St. Paul, wiped the tears away on his sleeve and said he wished he had been in that ring in place of either Brennan or Johnson.

"Five thousand legal iron dollars says that I can beat that Brennan," waited the St. Paul boy. "And five thousand more says I can stop Johnson inside of 15 rounds."

Well, about the fight, Johnson won because he was always waiting up to Brennan and doing his best to loop his mits through the old man's defense. Johnson was the aggressor most of the distance. His favorite implement was his right hand, which he would massage old Bill's right kidney and then pop him on the back of the head, a trick known as the rabbit punch, taught him a few months ago by Jack Dempsey.

It put Brennan down in this very ring one time a couple of years back after Bill had chopped Dempsey's left ear but Johnson was the aggressor and he was always waiting up to Brennan and doing his best to loop his mits through the old man's defense.

Experience is what Johnson needs, according to ringside observers. He is fast on his feet and is one of the fastest heavyweights seen here in some time. His defensive work is splendid and he left the ring with hardly a mark.

The boy may be a comer. Johnson weighed 194 pounds and was in fine condition. Brennan came in weighing 200 pounds. The fight was watched by 13,140 ladies and gentlemen and prize fighters and the receipts were $51,000.

AGOGAS WIN IN S. S. LOOP

Schedule for tonight:
TNT vs. Inman Park Baptist, 7:20 o'clock.
First Baptist vs. Stewart Avenue Methodist, 7:20 o'clock.
Agoga Feds vs. Central Baptist, 8:20 o'clock.
N. A. P. vs. St. Mark B. C., 8:40 o'clock.
All games will be played on Y. M. C. A. court.

Three fast games of basketball were played Friday night on the Boys' High court in the Sunday School league. The St. Luke Episcopal team forfeited to the Western Heights Baptist team, due to inability to get a team together since the Tech scrubs cannot play under the St. Luke name. Danwoody was recently hurt and Coach Alexander is taking no chances with his scrubs.

The Agoga team, which was all over the court and his dribbling was a decided improvement over the last appearance of the Agoga five. Ed. Murrach and George Rosser did the best work for the losers.

The Westminster Presbyterian team won a hard game from the West End Baptist five, 21 to 10. The team work of the winners was splendid. Every man figured in the scoring. Passing was the story of the victory.

The Ponce de Leon Baptist-Druid Hills Baptist game which ended in a 19 to 10 victory for the Ponce de Leon five was another good game. The Ponce de Leon team used the same five as last season and they have improved wonderfully since. The passing and guarding Friday night was good and Druid Hills was given very few chances to score.

Converse did the scoring while Carter and Kyle held the losers in check. Cook and Thomas played a good game for the losers.

PREPS IN 2ND ROUND TODAY

This afternoon at 1:30 o'clock the second round of the city prep basketball season will get under way on the auditorium court, under way on the auditorium court, under way on the auditorium court, under way on the auditorium court.

Commercial and Commercial will play at 2:30. Tech High and University at 3:30 and Boys' High and Decatur at 4:30 o'clock.

The Tech High-University game at 3:30 o'clock. University put up a great game Friday against Commercial and is slated to give Tech High a real battle this afternoon. Tech High did not look so well against Fulton, due to the use of many scrubs.

Captain Buck is in bed with an attack of flu and will be missing for a week or more yet. His place is taken by George, a promising candidate.

Coach Tolbert will present the best possible lineup against the Tech High team. He will probably start with Whitton and Perry at forward, Ball at center and Guiffreda, Woodall or George at guards. The University lineup will be Angle and Medina at forward, Burles at center and Captain Broadax and Freeman at guards.

Fulton High and Commercial should give a good battle as both lost on Friday afternoon. The Tech High team has won the last three years and now they have a chance to meet in the league.

Marist, by their good playing against Decatur Friday, should give Tech High a real battle. G. M. A. is playing a green team, while Marist has a veteran team on the floor. Boys' High is the favorite over Decatur in the first game.

Taking from the crowd of Friday afternoon the Auditorium should be well filled today. Tech High and University will certainly give a good game. The University, besides the other three games.

ATHENS GIRLS PLAY LOCALS

Athens, Ga., January 12.—(Special.) The Athens high school girls' basketball team will meet the girls of the Washington seminary at Athens Saturday.

The struggle will take place in the high school gym and a large crowd is expected to witness the game.

This is the first game of the season for the locals while the Atlanta crew have had a couple of games. Coach Nicholson realizes what a job it will be to share the Atlanta and will send in her worst candidates.

Little is known of the visitors' team this year but they have always ranked high in prep circles and this year they are expected to be an exception.

The local crew are hard at work for this game and are determined to start the season right with a win over the capital city crew. The first few days have brought out some unlooked for ability on the part of the girls. Hard scrimmages and signal drills have put the girls in good shape and they will be primed for the Saturday night fracas.

Coach Nicholson is undecided as to who she will start the game with but will no doubt call on the best in the fold. Unlike most of the opening games this will be a straight out affair. In spite of the fact that so little is known of the Atlantans, it is known that when a team lacks the prep schools in and around Atlanta a good day's work has been accomplished.

A full section of the seats has been reserved for the local fans. This being the first game and in view of the fact that the Georgia five will not play here a large crowd will doubtless attend this battle.

The fracas will be called at 8 o'clock. Fans are urged to come early to avoid the rush.

Frank Dobson Signs.

Richmond, Va., January 12.—Frank Dobson yesterday signed a five-year contract as athletic director at Richmond university. Dobson came to the university in 1912. He recently declined offers from Davidson and Lehigh. The student government at the university voted to increase the athletic fee from $10 to $15 per year.

Georgia Tech Wins Easily Over Painsmen's Quintet; Roane, Matheson Are Stars

Auburn Had Some Tough Luck But Jackets' Speed Would Have Been Enough To Win The Tigers Been in Their Form.

MEET CLEMSON TONIGHT.

Tech leaves at 12:30 today for Clemson, where tonight they will engage the Tigers in the proposed basketball game.

Stewart, who has been getting the boys ready for the struggle, predicts a good game and is confident his Clemson men will show up the Tech advantage. The Jackets will have an opening game for Clemson. In view of the fact that it is the third Tech in that respect, at least, Tech will have a decided advantage. But this advantage will necessarily be offset by the appearance of Clemson on their home court and before a sympathetic crowd.

As she played against the Athletic club there is little telling what the score would have been. The Alabamians were hard workers but were easily fooled and did not take advantage of many opportunities to take the ball from Tech players when it was rolling over the floor free or being passed at long distances. In explanation it was stated that the score was called on her. Auburn will not go far in the southern tournament unless much improvement is shown.

Jackets Take Lead. Tech took off fast and soon had a good lead which was gradually increased by good work, phenomenal shooting from the foul line and fair luck in field goal trials. The team did not have time to get set up a week ago, however. Of the regulars, Jenks was missing, his place being taken by Matheson, who played a star game and shot with accuracy when the passing gave him anything like an even chance. Baby Roane was a real star, along with Matheson, the two accounting for 25 of Tech's points.

Hahn and Creel were the leaders for the Auburn crew, scoring four of the five field goals made by the visitors. Shirley made the only other goal from the floor, his effort being a spectacular one as his line plunges. For Tech, Matheson got four field goals; Roane three, while Denicko and Eckford made two each.

The game tonight between the Athletic club and Birmingham A. C. should be the best of the entire year, the rivalry being intense and each club having a fine aggregation. The score will be a close one.

International Leaguers Enter Baseball Quarrel

Increasing Optional Player Limit Termed by John Conway Toole as One-Sided Legislation.

New York, January 12.—John Conway Toole, president of the International League, entered the proposed minor draft controversy today with a statement charging that "defenders of the one-sided legislation recently passed by the National and American leagues" either were ignorant or were being misquoted or were trying to deceive the public as to the action on the increased optional player limit taken by the minor leagues' association at Louisville.

By "one-sided legislation" Mr. Toole referred to the joint major league decision increasing the optional player limit from fifteen to twenty, and attaching the draft string to all players released to minor league clubs after January 10. The majors have defended this move on the ground that the minors violated the joint agreement of 1921 by refusing to consider the optional player increase at their last meeting.

The national association did not pass a resolution declining to pass on proposed amendments to the major-minor league agreement. Mr. Toole's statement said. "What the minors did was to sign a statement of acquiescence and the reasons for it are as follows:

"In January, 1921, after months of negotiation, committee meetings and joint meetings, the major-minor league agreement was signed. It provided that each major league club could send out eight players and no more on optional agreement. Less than six months later, the major leagues, admittedly sending out over eight optional players, asked the minor leagues to overlook their violation and permit them to continue for 1921 on the plea that they had so many players on hand they could not live up to what they had agreed to after much thought in January, 1921.

"Did the minors really lose their heads? Not at all. On Commissioner Landis' assurance that it would not occur after 1921, they decided to overlook the violation for that year.

"In 1922 the major leagues voted to raise the number of optional players from eight to fifteen. The minors voted 'no' sign that it is common talk in baseball that the rule was not observed by all clubs.

"At Louisville the secretary of the national association read a proposed amendment to the advisory council, on which he is one of our representatives, which if later approved would raise the optional player limit to fifteen. The major league players could be owned by each big league club in the off-season from 40 to 50.

"The national association unanimously voted to reject this suggestion, and, having voted to reject it, they refused to consider the proposed amendment. The option player limit three times in two years, it went further and said it would not vote on any proposed changes to these particular features of the agreement until the next annual meeting.

"The major-minor league agreement says that amendments to it may from time to time be proposed by the advisory council. If voting three times to fix the optional player limit at eight and voting once to suspend it at the request of the majors for 1921 only, is not voting from time to time, would it be? If any other organization voted four times on a single proposition in less than two years, it might well be excused for declining to vote again at this time."

After Jake May. Los Angeles, Cal., January 12.—Several scouts of major league clubs have made offers for Jake May, star left-handed pitcher of the Vernon club of the Pacific Coast baseball league, according to Howard Lorenz, secretary of the club, but none has the necessary players to trade. The club desires players instead of cash for May, it is said.

Training Plans. St. Louis, Mo., January 12.—The battery of the St. Louis Nationals will leave St. Louis for the team's spring training camp at Bradenton, Fla., on February 21, a very early start for the team. Branch Rickey, manager of the Cardinals, announced today. Rickey said the Cardinals would get into condition with the Syracuse International league team.

Winder Wins Game, 44-20. Winder, Ga., January 12.—(Special.) The fast Winder Athletic club quintet trounced the strong New Holland five from Gainesville in a hard fought game of basketball here last night by a score of 44 to 20.

By defeating the visitors so decisively the Winder men proved themselves to be players of the highest type and class. The game was the strongest teams in this section of the state as the New Holland team has a record of winning every game in which they have played this season.

The Winder Athletic club is anxious to complete its schedule and wishes to arrange sufficient games with other teams in this section to cover the basketball season. J. H. Jackson is manager.

FULTON HIGH GIRLS LOSE

BY LEONORA ANDERSON. With Fulton girls holding on like five bulldogs and giving them a run for their money, the Decatur girls carried the basketball home with the score 14 to 10 Friday afternoon at the Y. W. in the first game of the league. It was a mighty good game.

The teams were pretty well matched and it looked from the start as if Fulton was going to win. Decatur got into the game with a sudden rush and kept the score in their favor till the final whistle blew.

Decatur kept the ball down her way for the first few minutes of play, but Fulton speedily carried it over the court for a goal, the first of the game, for which Susie Terrell was responsible. Decatur fumbled a bit but recovered and got in the second goal which Stone put in the basket.

Once on the way to goal-decatur couldn't be stopped, and at the end of half the score was 14 to 10 in their favor. Both teams played clean, good basketball and every player comes in for a share of praise. Dave Parker was referee.

Terrell Starred. Susie Terrell stands out as the Fulton star. Susie got more applause than other one player, and Susie played better basketball than most of them. She had some hard tumbles and some fierce knocks, but rallied and kept in the game till the bitter end. Six points of the ten made by the Fulton squad may be checked up to the credit of Susie. She played all over that court and all around the players. But Susie had three personal and one technical foul called on her. The cheering seemed to be in a large measure for her and she more than deserved it.

It is difficult to pick the outstanding play of the Decatur girls it is more difficult to pick the outstanding play of the Fulton girls. All were good and they had far better team work than Fulton. Stone gave six points to the Decatur crew and Livsey gave four. Livsey, however, was the more spectacular of the two. She did some mighty good work, and is in line for congratulations. Cunningham and Ehle with two points each, and Ehle with one point, were the other players. Cunningham had one personal foul called on her; Ehle, one; Stone, one; Bunscho, two; Livsey, three.

Zachary Splendid. The Fulton squad, excepting Susie, played about evenly. Hudson, center, had two personal fouls; Moore, who was out in the last half, had one; Guffin, substituting for Moore, one; and Zachary, one. Zachary gave the team their other four points and did some pretty good work. Livsey, however, was the more spectacular of the two. She did some mighty good work, and is in line for congratulations. Cunningham and Ehle with two points each, and Ehle with one point, were the other players. Cunningham had one personal foul called on her; Ehle, one; Stone, one; Bunscho, two; Livsey, three.

On the side lines were the usual gang of followers of both teams. Fulton had more supporters but Decatur had some husky lungs working for them.

It was a mighty good game. The line-up is as follows:
DEC. Pos. FUL.
Cunningham.....Zachary
Ehle.....Moore-Guffin
Stone.....Hudson
Bunscho.....Terrell
Livsey.....Smith

At the special meeting of the prize committee it was decided that a silver trophy would be awarded to the winner of first place in the second annual hill climb which is to be held at Stone Mountain Sunday.

Mountain Sunday is the day of the engraved gold medal; for third place a special silver medal, and many other prizes will be awarded to the riders by the local dealers.

More interest in this event has been shown in every way than in any other event of its kind ever held in Atlanta. So beyond a doubt the sport fans of the city are being treated to the pleasure of seeing the biggest and best hill climb that the south has ever known.

Many people have asked if there will be as keen competition in the first annual hill climb. Officials say that the competition will be the keenest that has ever been known. Just look at the lineup: Jack Hanks, champion of the hill climb in the first annual hill climb; Ollis Parks, winner of second place in the first climb, and also winner of the solo cup in the late event; Stone, winner of the solo cup in the first annual hill climb; Henderson, winner of the solo cup in the first annual hill climb.

By the local dealers, winner of fourth place in the last hill climb and also winner of fifth place in the late 24-hour race at Lakewood; Clarence Springs, the southern endurance champion in 1922; Gene Dix, the south's youngest motor star and a coming champion; Sol Cohen, a perfect score winner in the recent endurance run; Bob Knicker, who carries the honors of the famous "Jinks family" to victory, are among other entries.

Taken all in all, that code seems to cover the case pretty thoroughly and in a satisfactory manner. Certainly, if every college official several times during the football season, and also, in fact, several times during the rest of the school year, called the attention of all the students publicly to this code, it would work wonders toward bettering not only the gridiron game, but also every college sport, for many of the rules in this code can appropriately and properly be applied to other competitive sports.

Perhaps it is not a bad suggestion that the work of calling attention of students to such a code begin with the preparatory and high schools.

Winder Wins Game, 44-20. Winder, Ga., January 12.—(Special.) The fast Winder Athletic club quintet trounced the strong New Holland five from Gainesville in a hard fought game of basketball here last night by a score of 44 to 20.

By defeating the visitors so decisively the Winder men proved themselves to be players of the highest type and class. The game was the strongest teams in this section of the state as the New Holland team has a record of winning every game in which they have played this season.

The Winder Athletic club is anxious to complete its schedule and wishes to arrange sufficient games with other teams in this section to cover the basketball season. J. H. Jackson is manager.

Atlantans Out to Avenge Defeat Suffered in 1922; Game Will Start at 8:30

Local Team Undeclared So Far This Season, While Slagtown Quintet Itself Has Made a Brilliant Record.

Southern basketball fandom in its entirety is interested in the fracas scheduled between the Atlanta Athletic club and the Birmingham Athletic club, on the Auditorium court tonight. This, without a doubt will be one of, if not the snappiest game to be played here this season, and it would be putting it in a mild form to say that both teams are primed and ready for action. Those boys are all "hot" up and all spectators don't see action to the nth degree Saturday night it will be because they are blind. The game starts at the usual time, 8:30 o'clock.

Atlanta defeated Birmingham in Atlanta last season. Birmingham defeated Atlanta in Birmingham the same season. That's enough in itself to guarantee a snappy game of basketball.

But add to those two facts the following items:
The A. A. C. went through a hard practice Friday night and showed good form. In fact the squad took a better appearance than it has in some time. Those boys are all "hot" up and all spectators don't see action to the nth degree Saturday night it will be because they are blind. The game starts at the usual time, 8:30 o'clock.

Tech High, B. H. S., Marist University Win Openers

Fast Basketball Battles Mark Opening of Atlanta's Prep League. Fulton Extends T. H. S.

BY ROY E. WHITE.

The city prep league began its 1923 campaign Friday and started its Director Al Doonan was on the Auditorium court and saw to it that the games were started as per schedule, and each game was played in its allotted time. If the start is any indication, then Atlanta spectators will be given some rare basketball. The crowd was large, numbering upwards of 600 and seemed very much interested in the games. The arena was kept clear of spectators and everything went off very smoothly in the first games.

Tech High beat Fulton 24 to 8. Boys' High beat G. M. A. 46 to 16. Marist defeated Decatur 25 to 11, and University was victor over Commercial, 37 to 12.

Tech High, playing the Tech High team in the first half, the better of the Fulton lads but Coach Tolbert was forced to use the varsity as the half was nearing an end. The Smiths fouled with the county lads for some five minutes before either side scored, then Bell, the rangy center on Tech High, broke loose with a couple of long field goals. Speedy Spear, another Tech High player, was off to a good lead.

Fulton was playing a wonderful defensive game but could not shoot. They had numerous chances but failed at most of them. Mims at guard was the main factor for Fulton, for he was death under the goal on catching the ball on the rebound.

The game resembled a track meet more than basketball for each side would invariably pass up and down the court only to lose the chance of a basket. The playing of the Tech High team was far below its standard. They passed miserably and took many long shots. The team work that was so good against the Tech freshmen was missing.

Souls for Sale

BY RUPERT HUGHES

Next Week, "Guns of the Gods"
By Talbot Mundy

"And so one morning they crossed the Mississippi and into Calvary."
As they stepped down from their car both gasped and clutched.

The Reverend Doctor Stedden was a few yards away from them, studying the off-getting passengers.
"Let's see if he knows us," snickered Mrs. Stedden, with a relapse to girlishness.

"Let's," said Mem.
They knew him instantly, of course. He wore the same suit they had left him in, and the only change they could see was a little more white in a little less hair.

But he did not know them at all. It amused them to pass him by and note his casual glance at the smart hat and the polite traveling suit of his wife. He had expected a change in his daughter, but he was probably braced for something loud and gaudy.

So her father passed her by. When Mrs. Stedden turned and hailed him in a voice that was gladder and more tender than she knew, he whirled with his heart bounding, and they heard his hungry, feasting heart growling:

"If I had been a 'fallen woman,' I couldn't have saved papa's church from ruin. How do you explain it? What's the right and wrong of it all?"

The old doctor shook his head: "I'm no longer fool enough, honey, to try to explain anything that happens to us here. According to one line of thinking, your misstep was the divine plan. According to another, good can never come out of evil. Of course we know it does, every day; and evil out of good. So let's be as human as we can, and I guess that's about as divine as we'll ever get down here."

He led her out to his woe-filled little tin wagon and they went lurching through the streets, out into the cemetery.

Mem's only rite of atonement was a glance of remorseful agony east toward Elwood's resting place. It showed her that the founder of her fortunes was honored only by a wooden headboard already warped and sideling.

"One last favor," she mumbled to Dr. Bretheick. "Get a decent tombstone for the poor boy and let me pay for it."

"All right, honey," said the doctor. And the car jangled out of the gates into the secular road.

At the supper table the younger children beset her with questions. Gladys was particularly curious and searching in her inquiries.

Then came the hour of the theater-going. Nobody had dared to ask Dr. Stedden if he would accompany his family. He had not made up his own mind. He dared not.

The family tacitly assumed that his conscience or his pride forbade him to appear in the sink of iniquity he had so often denounced.

The family bade him good-by and left him, but had hardly reached the gate when he came pounding after. He flung his arms about Mem's shoulders and cast off all his offices except that of a father, chuckling:

"Where my daughter goes is good enough for me!"

He made almost more of a sensation in the theater than Mem. There was applause and cheering and even a slow and awkward rising to the feet until the whole packed auditorium was erect and clamorous.

Seats of honor were reserved for the great star and the family that reflected her effulgence. As soon as they were seated the young woman who failed the piano began to batter the keys, and Mem's latest picture began to flow down the screen.

She could feel at her elbow the rigid arm of her father undergoing martyrdom. She felt it wince as her first close-up began to glow, her huge eyes pleading to him in a kist of superhuman tears. The arm relaxed as he surrendered to the wonder of her beauty. It tightened again when danger threatened her, and she could hear his sigh of relief when she escaped one peril, his gasp as she encountered another.

He was like a child playing with his first toy, hearing his first fairy story. He was entranced. She heard him laugh with a boyishness she had never associated with him.

She heard him blow his nose with a blast that might have shaken a wall in Jericho.

A sneaking side glance showed her aloud along a well-thought path.

He was like a child playing with his first toy, hearing his first fairy story. He was entranced. She heard him laugh with a boyishness she had never associated with him.

She heard him blow his nose with a blast that might have shaken a wall in Jericho.

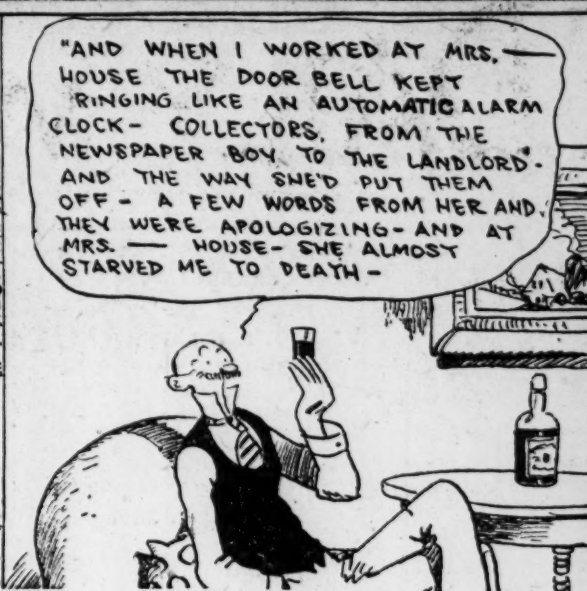

A sneaking side glance showed her

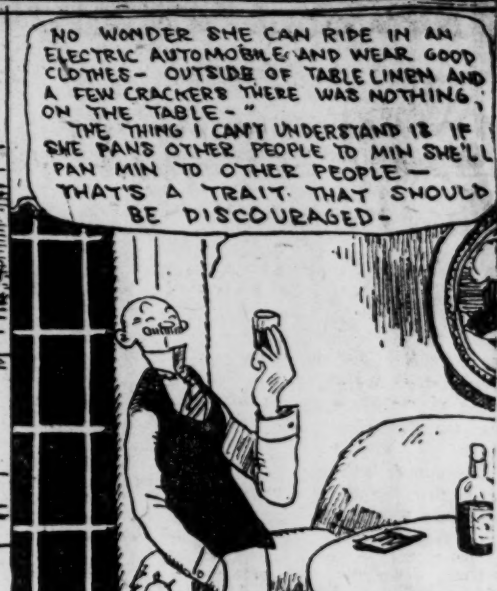

IT'S AMUSING TO ME—NOW MIN NEVER TALKS ABOUT ANYBODY—BUT WHEN THAT DRESSMAKER COMES HERE—(AND SHE IS A SCANDAL SPREADER) MIN SITS AROUND AND EGGS HER ON—

SHE TELLS HER ABOUT EVERY BODY SHE EVER WORKED FOR AND SHE HAS ANY MERCANTILE AGENCY BACKED INTO THE DITCH—MRS. SO-AND-SO GETS CLOTHES FROM HER RICH SISTER AND HAS THEM MADE OVER—

"AND WHEN I WORKED AT MRS. HOUSE THE DOOR BELL KEPT RINGING LIKE AN AUTOMATIC ALARM CLOCK—COLLECTORS, FROM THE NEWSPAPER BOY TO THE LANDLORD—AND THE WAY SHE'D PUT THEM OFF—A FEW WORDS FROM HER AND THEY WERE APOLOGIZING—AND AT MRS. HOUSE—SHE ALMOST STARVED ME TO DEATH—

NO WONDER SHE CAN RIDE IN AN ELECTRIC AUTOMOBILE—AND WEAR GOOD CLOTHES—OUTSIDE OF TABLE LINEN AND A FEW CRACKERS THERE WAS NOTHING ON THE TABLE—

that his eyes were dripping. And when the applause broke out at the finish of the picture, she heard his great hands making the loudest thwacks of all. This was heart-breaking bliss for her.

The family rode home in state, the children and the mother loud in comment, the father silent.

The old person had to think it all out. Once at home, he sent the children up to bed and held Mem and her mother with his glittering eye for a long while before he delivered his sermon:

"My beloved wife and daughter, I—ahem, ahem! I want to plead for the forgiveness of you both. I have been wrong headed and stiff necked as so often, but now I am humbled before you in spite of all my pride. It has just come over me that when God said, 'Let there be light,' and there was light, He had in mind this glorious instrument for portraying the wonders of His handiwork. Our dear Redeemer used the parable for His divine lessons, and it has come to me that if He should walk the earth again today He would use the motion pictures.

"You have builded better than you knew, perhaps, my child—and now I ask you to pardon me for being ashamed of you when I should have been proud. You were using the gifts that heaven sent you as heaven meant you to use them. Your art is sacred and you can't, you won't, sully it in your life. God forgive me for my unbelief and send you happiness and goodness and a long, long usefulness in the path you have elected."

That night Mem knelt again by her old bed and, on knees unaccustomed to prayer, implored strength to keep her gift like a chalice, a grail of holiness. She woke with an early-morning resolve to be the purest woman and the devotedest artist that ever lived.

The next day she left the town with all its blessings, no longer a scapegoat, sin laden, limping into the wilderness, but a missionary God-sped into the farthest lands of the earth.

It seemed that all Calvary was at the station to wring her hand and wait her salvation.

The conductor called, "All aboard!" and hasty farewells were taken in clench of hand and awkward kiss.

Mem ran to the rear platform and waved and waved long-throated signals of love to her dwindling family. She noted the absence of her sister Gladys and wondered at it as she went to her drawing-room. There she found the girl ensconced in fairy triumph, smiling like a pretty witch.

"What on earth are you doing here?" Mem cried.

"Going to Los Angeles with you. I may never be great like you, but I'm going to have a mighty good time trying."

There were many questions to exchange and Mem soon learned that her sister had fung off the chains that one or two ardent lovers had tried to fasten about her.

And when, with a last faltering reproach she asked her sister if she were wise to toss aside the devotion of a good man, Gladys laughed.

"Let love wait! The men have kept us waiting for thousands of years, till they were ready. Now let them wait for us!"

There was no gainsaying this. It had been Mem's own feeling when she left Los Angeles and her lovers there.

Let love wait, then, till she had made the best of herself. And then let love not demand that she bow her head and shrivel in his shadow; but let him bloom his best alongside.

She wondered who that fellow of her destiny would be—Tom Holby, maybe—Austin Boas, or still another perhaps; or others, perhaps, including him! or them! In any case he (or they) had better behave and play fair!

As for being a mother, let that wait, too. She was going to mother the multitudes and tell them stories to soothe them!

There was far more in this dream than vanity, far more than selfishness. The hope of the world lay therein, for the world can never advance farther than its women.

She had a soul to sell and it was all her own, and she was going to market. The dawn was hers for conquest. Mankind was her lover and her beloved. That one-man passion called love could tarry until at least the late forenoon.

THE END.

Stefansson Helped To Settle Wrangell Island Question

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, who is to lecture here on the evening of Tuesday, January 16, at the Atlanta Woman's club auditorium, started three governments by settling Wrangell island and claiming it for Great Britain. This last remaining no man's land has lain unclaimed by any nation for nearly a hundred years, since it was first discovered by a British naval expedition, and it remained for Stefansson, familiar with the north, and seeing its future value as an air base, to send at his own expense a little party of colonists to settle there as an evidence of British possession.

Wrangell island, about the size of Jamaica, lies one hundred miles off the coast of eastern Siberia in the Arctic ocean. Because it lay off their shores, the Russians have always considered it part of the empire, though they did not discover it nor settle it. Through first discovery, Great Britain established a prior claim to the island, but this lapsed after five years, according to international law, when no attempt was made to settle the island. Later the United States put in a counter claim (by exploration in 1881), but this also lapsed in five years. Britain, by settlement, has now re-established her rights to the island. Stefansson effected this bold stroke of policy chiefly to anticipate the Japanese. After repeated attempts to induce the Canadian government to do something official about it and after unsuccessfully urging the Hudson Bay company of Canada to establish a post there, Stefansson determined to settle the island by personal effort.

When Stefansson comes to Atlanta with his talk on the nature of the lands lying within the Arctic circle, with their vast untapped resources and their splendid future both commercially and economically, he will probably not even mention this thrilling episode in his experiences, although it is a tale of international romance, which reads like an Openheim novel in real life. It is only one of many adventures in which Stefansson has played a leading part.

Movie Matinees To Show Children Their Favorites

Douglas Fairbanks, Babby Peggy and Ingimiluk the Eskimo, at the Howard; Buffalo Bill and Bonnie the wonder dog at the Alpha, make up a list of attractions for the Saturday morning, January 13, children's matinee that is perfect in the opinion of the young spectators, judging from the great crowds that gathered at these beloved screen stars whenever they are shown. Each picture has been reviewed by Mrs. Porter Langston before being accepted and the making of this particular program Mrs. Langston has succeeded in bringing together an aggregation of special favorites of the clientele of young people who regularly attend these performances.

The Fairbanks picture will represent "Doug" as "His Majesty, the American," and the patrons are assured that Doug is as agile, as aggressive and as expansively smiling as the most exacting boy or girl could desire. Babby Peggy has a place in the hearts of the little moviegoers, and makes her eagerly welcomed on all occasions. "The children adore her," according to Mrs. Langston, who says she will be seen on Saturday at "Peggy Gets Her Hair Cut." The picture, a 4-year old Peggy runs away from home clad in overalls, and as would be expected in the case of such a naughty young person, she expends a number of adventures and she is quite willing to be returned to her home before night by the postman, who delivers her to her proper abode via the mail-sack route.

Ingimiluk the Eskimo is shown in his original habitat and this instructional reel will be a highly satisfactory showing of just what, its title implies—"The Fur North." This picture was obtained by Mrs. Langston in response to repeated requests from the second grade children in the city who desire its exciting and informative aid to special work in their classes. Buffalo Bill at the Alpha will be shown in the 17th episode of his adventures, "The Gun Shot Morgan." Bonnie, the wonder dog, is a prime favorite with the young audiences, and the Saturday morning showing will be highly satisfactory.

A two-reel Century comedy, "A Race to a Finish" will complete the program at the Alpha in a manner that will please all the little folks who attend.

The chaparrans, as announced by Mrs. W. P. Lemmon and Mrs. G. H. Guy, co-chairmen of chaparrans for children's matinees, will be Mrs. W. J. Miles and Mrs. G. H. Miles at the Howard and Mrs. C. A. Wallace at the Alpha.

An additional feature at the Howard will be the reading by Mrs. Langston of Will Hays' personal letter to Mary Josephine Zachary in reply to the letter of Mary Josephine's that won first prize in the letter writing contest for the matinee attendants on "What Pictures I Like Best and Why I Like Them," conducted recently at the Howard by the Better Films committee.

HOW TO SAVE WHEN SHOPPING

By Ruth Leigh
Author of "The Human Side of Retail Selling," "The A B C of Retailing," etc.

When you buy poultry, it is a good idea to select on a chicken from the head left on. A fowl should have a red comb and clear eyes. See that it has no sores. The feet should also be left on, so that you can tell the soft spurs of the chicken from the hard ones of the rooster.

The points to consider in buying poultry are full, round breasts that have streaks of fat under the skin of the breast. The skin should be white, for the whiteness of the skin is an indication of whether or not the poultry has been milk-fed, legs should be short and feet short and yellow.

A good roasted chicken has short legs, small feet, thick meat and an excess of fat under the skin. If you find thick layers of fat near the vent, you may be sure that this is undesirable poultry. Of course, it is essential to avoid full crop in poultry, as well as the which has blue combs.

Capon is selected in the same way as chicken. The head and wing feathers are usually left on in the market. There is a large amount of waste meat in capon, and a delicious flavor.

Monday we will discuss the points of good washboard.

Freezing and wind both take starch from clothes.

A can of coke placed in the refrigerator will cause all odors to evaporate.

Tickets on Sale for "Cosi Fan Tutte"

The box office at Cable Piano company this morning will undoubtedly present a lively scene when it opens at 9 o'clock for the sale of seats to the popular Mozart comic opera, "Cosi Fan Tutte," which will be sung Monday night, January 15, at the Auditorium Army, being the third number of the civic concert series, under auspices of the Atlanta Music club.

That a large and brilliant audience will greet the group of artist singers who make up the company is the confident expectation of music club members, since the performance has everything in its favor and is said to merit every word of praise and appreciation that has been accorded to the opera and those who are making it one of the outstanding musical treats of the season.

It is a Mozart opera in the master composer's happiest style; it is comedy with a wealth of sparkling wit and comical situations; it is produced by William Wade Hinshaw, who is far famed for the painstaking perfect art that has characterized his every production; it brings to Atlanta seven great artists, all singers and musicians of the first rank, and all chosen with a view to the perfect blending of voices so necessary in the exquisite duet, trio and ensemble work of the Mozart music; and it is sung in English, the English dialogue having been especially written for Mr. Hinshaw's production, by the eminent critic of the New York Tribune, Henry Edward Krehbiel.

These are just a few of the notable features of the production that Atlantans will have the opportunity to hear Monday night, and coming as it does, with the unstinted commendation of press and critics everywhere, still undoubtedly bring out a record attendance of the music loving public. Tickets are reasonably priced at $1.50 and $1.00, so that every one who wishes to may attend.

A rare treat was given the members of the Atlanta Music club and their friends Friday morning in the operalogue of "Cosi Fan Tutte." Mozart's opera comique which is to be heard Monday night in the city auditorium.

Mrs. Kurt Mueller, mezzo-soprano, always generous with her talent, arranged this delightful program. She was assisted by Mrs. Grace Lee Townsend, soprano, and Jay Morris, bass, with Miss Eda Bartholomew at the piano.

Mozart's music breathes from every bar the exquisite tenderness and charm of his nature. In his opera he makes the surest appeal to modern hearers. No lapse of time nor change of fashion can dim the lustre of these marvelous works.

The duets by Mrs. Townsend and Mrs. Mueller were sung with exquisite taste and beauty of tone.

Mr. Morris sang well the aria "Guglielmo."

Miss Eda Bartholomew, one of Atlanta's most gifted and brilliant pianists, played the overture and finale in her usual artistic style.

CHAPTER LIV.The Village Poet.

Cynthia went slowly down the hall to Bruce's room from by conflicting emotions. Now that Margaret had come, she felt more relieved about Bruce, but she felt that nothing could ever lessen her distress about Roger. And how could she get the five hundred dollars that Lucile must have at once. And what did the girl want the money for?

She had feared that Margaret would be much upset, and was relieved to find her very calm. She was sitting beside Bruce, holding one of his hands in hers, and looking down at his face. He was still unconscious.

"Margaret, have you any money?" Cynthia asked her abruptly. Margaret hardly looked up. Cynthia felt brutal in making an appeal to her, but she knew that nothing but a check would pierce Margaret's absorption in Bruce at that moment.

"Any money?" Margaret repeated, as if she did not grasp the meaning of the words.

"Yes—I must have five hundred dollars at once," Cynthia told her. "Will you write me a check for it? I can pay you tomorrow."

"Yes," Margaret spoke as if it were in a dream. She got a check book from her desk, wrote the name of Margaret's bank over the name of her own, and then wrote the check. She handed Margaret a pen and the book, and Margaret scrawled her name at the bottom of the slip of paper and turned back to Bruce again. Cynthia left the room with a sigh.

She felt as if she herself were in a dream, as she went across town to the elevated. Life had suddenly become such a topsy-turvy thing, with no rhyme nor reason to it. It seemed impossible that it was she, Cynthia Moore, calm, contented wife of Roger Moore, who had been plunged into this turmoil.

She found Lucile standing in the middle of the tea room's largest room, surveying a heap of tables and chairs. Beside her stood Ted.

"But of course you'll give it up!" he was saying as Cynthia came in. "Then, as he saw her, he turned to her gladly. 'Cynthia, you'll make Lucile see reason, won't you?' he demanded. 'This is no place for her, and I can't make her realize that. Why—why, she's running round with all kinds of people!'

Worried as she was, Cynthia could not help smiling at that. How recently she had worried because Lucile was going about with Ted, who was the sort of person for her to be seen so much with—and now here was Ted himself protesting against the girl's new companions.

"But, Ted, she's all right here; I'm looking after her," Cynthia told him. "Well, you aren't here with her all the time," the boy insisted. "Now, if she'd just let me see her, I could—" have you around," Lucile cut in at that moment. "Besides, Cynthia hasn't long to stay, and I want to talk to her—alone."

"Ted, I'm busy today, and I can't—"

"But what does she think of the whole thing. That's what I want to know."

"Oh, of course," Lucile exclaimed hastily. "Certainly she knows all about it. But really, Ted, there isn't time now to talk about such matters; you'll have to postpone the discussion till some other time."

"Oh, yes, I can't take care of that," Lucile took it eagerly. "You're a darling, and when you understand about this whole thing, you won't mind my not explaining matters now. Let's go into the other room, where it's more settled."

One of Lucile's new friends was in the other room, and Cynthia realized before she had been there very long that Lucile was much interested in the Village Poet, as she called the tall, thin young man who greeted Cynthia so politely and her so effectively.

"Ted, I'm busy today, and I can't—"

He went away reluctantly and Lucile turned to Cynthia with a little, appealing gesture of her hands.

"You'll forgive me for not telling you all the things he thinks I have told, won't you?" she asked.

"Yes, I have it here," Cynthia handed over the check. "Will this do? I didn't stop to get it cashed."

"Oh, yes, I can't take care of that," Lucile took it eagerly. "You're a darling, and when you understand about this whole thing, you won't mind my not explaining matters now. Let's go into the other room, where it's more settled."

Tech High School Cadets Corps in Annual Review Wins Commendation of Regular Army Officers

The Tech High School R. O. T. C. on review before regular army officers and patrons of the school Friday afternoon. The upper picture shows the youngsters gathered around for instructions from the commandant. Lower left, the regimental color bearers. Lower right, Company B, crack outfit of the regiment, passing the reviewing stand at "eyes right."

Parents, army officers from Fort McPherson, and other interested spectators, numbering well over 500, witnessed the annual review of the Tech High R. O. T. C. unit Friday, at the corner of Baker and Hayden streets. The unit executed all the formations and drills employed by the regular army in a manner rarely seen in R. O. T. C. divisions. Army officials present declared it to be one of the best reviews of its nature they had ever witnessed. Sixteen companies participated.

Frank Crenshaw, of Company H, was judged winner of the exhibition manual of arms drill, being the best drilled in a group composed of a representative from each company. Crenshaw was presented an R. O. T. C. medal and a copy of the school training.

It was easy to see, too, that the Village Poet was much interested in Lucile.

Monday—Cynthia Makes a Change. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

When a woman first wakes up to the fact that she can, or should, improve her looks, one of the first things she does is to read with a credulous mind all the articles, pamphlets and ads that she can find.

Some are very cautious, they say nothing, promise nothing. But most go to the extreme. "If you'll do so and so," they put it, "you'll have glossy hair, bright eyes, long lashes, healthy teeth and an irresistible complexion practically over night."

From all this mass of writing, the reader is apt to develop a lot of fantastic ideas.

Now then—read this and see whether your common sense doesn't tell you that this is true.

You cannot restore in a few hours the skin you've taken years to ruin. You cannot grow hair on a scalp that is weak from long neglect—not all at once, that is. You cannot magically recapture your vanished youth, you cannot gain in an evening a social charm you've lacked all your life.

You can—and this is to cheer you up—slowly build up the thin hair to a thick growth. You can gradually restore the freshness and color to a skin that you have spoiled. You can go back years and years in the matter of youth, though to recapture it all may be impossible, and you can slowly develop social charm, no matter how awkward you've been in the past nor how lonely you are at the moment. For this last comes from within you—your mind and heart are your own to develop, though your chin and nose may not be.

Any tiny improvement is worth trying to gain in the matter of looks—but you must expect results immediately.

Jane B. L.—When the hair is as oily as yours an occasional dry shampoo will not hurt it. A simple method is to separate the hair into strands and use a soft towel, wringing the oil out exactly as you would the hair and you were drying it. This will remove much of the oil, but if it is still too oily just a very little bit oforris root through the hair and remove it after a few minutes by shaking the hair vigorously.

Martha.—At 45 years, with a height of five feet, you are at the weight should be not more than 150 pounds.

Josephine F. R.—If you send me a s. a. e. I shall be glad to mail you the exercises.

Mrs. T. G.—A powder for very moist feet such as those of your husband may be made at home from one part powdered alum to 12 parts of starch or talcum powder. To overcome the odor he should scrub the feet each night with antiseptic soap, or use a soap in which there is a wet-cyllic acid as that is mildly antiseptic and also astringent. Then the feet should be rubbed with oil.

For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

Chicago, Ill.—"I was weak and run-down and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time, and dizzy, and could not sleep and had no appetite. I tried different medicines for years, but they did not help me. Then I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This woman speaks from the fullness of her heart. She describes as correctly as she can her condition, first the symptoms that bothered her the most, and later the disappearance of those symptoms. It is a sincere expression of gratitude."

Getting On at the Office

BY HELEN ORMSBEE

"Girls, the five-dollar bill that was in my purse this morning is gone!"

Anita Bronson, who had taken her wristbag out of the top drawer of her desk, now laid it down with a gasp.

"Gone!" exclaimed Viola Murphy. "Are you sure?"

"Look again. It must be there," May Stein counseled.

Anita searched. Then she shook her head. "It's—it's gone."

"Maybe it dropped out when you opened your bag to pay your fare in the street car," suggested Muriel Miller.

"It couldn't," Anita insisted. "I hadn't stuffed it in loose. It was in it."

Miss Frances Powell Gives Lovely Tea.

Miss Dorothy Haverly, whose wedding will be a brilliant social event of next week, Miss Elizabeth Kontz and Miss Margaret Morgan, two of this season's lovely debutantes, were the guests of honor at a charming afternoon tea Friday given by Miss Frances Powell at the home of her parents, Judge and Mrs. Arthur Powell, on Peachtree street.

Pink and white flowers were used throughout the house. The guests were: Mesdames Clement Evans, Harold Cooke, George Ivy, Charlotte, N. C.; Charles Gray, Murdock Egan, Cator Woodford, Norman Godeke, Miss Louise, Numan, Jennie Robinson, Margaret Block, Sarah Bruce, Mary Frances College, Mary Shoden, Katherine Haverly, Max Haverly, Virginia Pomeroy, Lucy Candler, Elizabeth Owens, Margaret Nelson, Emily Robinson, Arabella Dudley and Erskine Jarnagin.

"Well, I'm going to keep my eye on Henry," Anita concluded. "And when Mr. Roberts come back this afternoon I'll tell him about it. I really think I ought to."

But when she was putting on her coat at luncheon time she happened to thrust her hand into the inside pocket.

"Here's my five dollars," "Girls! Here's my five dollars."

A chorus of exclamations. "I—I forgot!" Anita went on. "This morning when I took the bill out of my sundae box, my purse didn't happen to be in the room. I put it down in the hall. So I put the five dollars in my inside coat pocket."

"And you were trying to lay it on poor Henry!" taunted Viola.

"I—I wasn't trying to," Anita murmured. "But it—it looked that way. As if he had it, I mean."

Massachusetts Man Sends Letter to Jefferson Davis, Asking Payment on Bond.

Attorney General George M. Naper is seeking some way by which he can avoid destroying the undying faith of Abner Lee Squiggins, of Worthington, Mass., in Jefferson Davis and the Confederate States of America. Mr. Squiggins probably is the only living being today who doesn't know the civil war is over; that the south lost out, and that Davis is dead.

Friday noon a letter was received in the attorney general's office at the capitol. It was from the Richmond postmaster and contained a letter addressed to "Jefferson Davis, President, Richmond, Virginia." Unable to deliver the letter, the Richmond postmaster had opened it and inside he found a $500 bond issued by the state of Georgia in 1862 and a letter. He forwarded them to Georgia, hence this story.

The letter reads as follows: "R. F. D. 2, Worthington, Mass., January 8, 1923.

Mr. Jefferson Davis, Richmond, Virginia. Dear Mr. President:

Will you please send me the rest of the money on this. I only got paid for two coupons, and I need some money to get a couple of cows and to pay some on my mortgage. I meant to send this before I came up here in 1872 but I had no time.

Honorably yours, ABNER LEE SQUIGGINS. P. S.—Please send it in one (1) dollar bills."

The bond bears a total of thirty coupons, which two have been torn off and paid. It is signed by Joseph E. Brown, governor, and N. C. Barnett, secretary of state. It is in a good state of preservation and might be useful as a souvenir or curio. It is to relieve a financial stringency, it has gone the way of all other Confederate obligations, outlawed as a condition for the return of the south from states into the union.

WEAK, NERVOUS, OUT OF HEART

Louisiana Lady Says She Has "Never Found Anything Better Than Cardui for a Run-Down Condition."

Morgan City, La.—"It would be hard for me to tell how much benefit I have derived from the use of Cardui," said Mrs. L. G. Bowman, of 1319 Front Street, this city.

"I was so run-down in health I could hardly go."

"I had no appetite."

"Could not rest or sleep well."

"I was so weak, and so very nervous, I was no pleasure to myself or any one else."

"I suffered some pain, but the worst of my trouble was from being so weak and easy to get tired and out of heart."

"This nervous condition was worse than pain."

"Some one told me of Cardui, and I decided to use it."

"After using a few bottles, I regained my strength. I wasn't so nervous, and began to eat and sleep, and grew stronger and was soon well."

"I have never found anything better for a run-down condition."

If you suffer as this Louisiana lady did, it is reasonable to suppose that you, too, will find Cardui helpful for your troubles, as thousands of women have.

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic. Get a bottle from your druggist, today.—(adv.)

"The Passing Show"

Closes Engagement At Atlanta Theater

With a matinee at 2:30 and the evening performance at 8:30 the engagement of "The Passing Show" at the Atlanta Theater will come to a close tonight. Not in many seasons has there been an attraction in Atlanta that has proved so popular as this New York Winter Garden revue, which came to Atlanta in all its pristine beauty, direct from New York. The organization is an unusually large one, both in the matter of principals and the chorus contingent, and to mention the large orchestra, and working departments. The principals all have real acting ability and many have superb voices. It is generally agreed that the girls are the most gorgeous that ever visited this section of the hinterland. The costumes are a riot of color, beauty, exquisite fabrics and stylish models. San Howard, a joyous comedian with a gift for comedy that few comedians possess, works his way with unctuous humor throughout the performance, leaving a comic thread in the wool of stage entertainment.

Jack Dempsey and Margaret Wood, the dancers, deserve a word of praise for their work is exceedingly well done and is one of the high lights in a bright performance. "The Passing Show" is truly a revue, for songs, dances, musical numbers, displays and splendid scenic effects follow one another with great rapidity and one number starts the applause that laps over onto the succeeding one making one long continued demonstration of approval.

Keith Vaudeville.
(At the Lyric.)
In the mad whirl of present-day vaudeville it is refreshing to find a man who can tell jokes with such telling effect as Gene Green, who has the best offering at the Lyric the last half of the week. His funny stories are reeled off in rapid-fire order, and he adds to the act with a number of songs that left the audience applauding for more.

Brown and Barrows, through clever and a miniature accordion and a trumpet, carried a good hand. Their act is full of nonsense, but went over well.

Gosler and Lushy have a song and dance offering, with pretty scenic effects and some graceful dancing by Miss Lushy.

Comedy and Fink have a vaudeville comedy dialogue offering, while Ford and Price have one of the best wire-walking acts seen at the Lyric this season.

"Constitution Follies."
(At Loew's Grand.)
After playing a week, capacity houses at Loew's Grand theater "The Atlanta Constitution Follies" closes engagement with tonight's performance. The show is a new one, showing today starting at 2:00, 4:30, 6:10 and 9:00 p. m.

The "Follies" has been pronounced by the critics to be one of the most entertaining vaudeville acts ever offered in Atlanta, and it is to be regretted that the engagement cannot be extended through another week.

Miss Stenger, a voice of unusual tone and depth, and it is well trained. Her numbers last night included "Shepherdess of the Hills," "Hindu Girl," "Vivienne," "Ariette from 'Romeo and Juliet,'" "Shadows of Evening," and other widely loved vocal selections.

Miss Ryman has a delightful contralto voice and has been heard with much pleasure many times from this station. Her numbers included "Baby," "Carolina in the Morning," and "Goodbye, Sweet Day."

Miss Stenger gave the piano accompaniment last night in a most acceptable manner. This widely known Atlanta music lover and artist is a finished pianist and it is refreshing to have her talent heard here.

Miss Ryman and Miss Stenger are voice pupils of Signor E. Volpi, of Atlanta, and Miss Kimball is a pupil of Miss Sara Ade Eastlake, director of dramatic art and expression, of Atlanta.

BLIGHT LIGHTS
DESTROY LOVERS'
PARK RETREAT
The one-time "lovers' lane" that wound in peaceful darkness through the bushes and no longer an inviting resting place for Atlanta swains and damsels. The peacefulness is no longer dark. The outward rush of progress in Atlanta has left a line of more than 100 white way posts stationed along the driveway as sentinels to keep Eros out of the park.

Work on the white way posts was completed last night and the lights were on last night.

For years Grant park has been one of the most popular strolling places in Atlanta. Even since the automobile has extended the available territory for experimenting with love's young dream, hundreds of couples have sought the quiet retreats offered by the groves and shrubbery of the park every evening of spring and summer and fall.

Cotton storage has been cut by about one-half during the present season, D. G. Hill, Jr., head of the American Cotton Growers' exchange, announced here today.

Principal among the factors contributing to the saving were improvements in methods of fire service and in the general office in Dallas and more favorable warehousing conditions with compress firms, Mr. Hill said.

New York, January 12.—There was a further excited advance in the cotton market today which carried the price of May contracts up to 27.30, or 42 points above the close of yesterday and 127 points above the low price touched on the reaction of Monday. Realizing became heavier about the 27.25 level, and a better price came off later, with May closing at 27.30. The general market closed steady 12 to 23 points net higher.

The market opened firm on an advance of 16 to 20 points on the higher Liverpool cables, reports of a firmer tone in foreign exchange rates, and reiterated reports of a better Manchester trade. The market advanced about 27 points, the market eased slightly under realizing but heavy selling orders were absorbed and prices turned up again late in the morning owing to continued trade buying, covering, and a broadening commission house demand. January advanced to 27.30, and March to 27.31 with active trading generally showing net gains of 40 to 44 points before this buying was supplied. The demand then tapered off somewhat and the afternoon trading was dominated by rather less bullish week-end figures than expected and rumors that private returns showed a falling off in domestic mill consumption for December. These private reports were confirmed by Liverpool cables from January sold down to 27.13 and March to 27.34, but the close was 4 or 5 points up from the lowest and the final tone of the market was higher.

Private reports were received this morning stating that India was buying cotton goods in larger quantities and paying higher prices in Manchester. These reports were followed by the official cable from Manchester to the New York cotton exchange reporting an active business in cotton and houses with Liverpool quotations were said to have been good buyers here during the morning.

Spinnings' takings for the week as reported by the New York cotton exchange were 27,641 compared with 30,475 last week and 21,047 last year. Exports today 14,434 bales, making 3,402,537 so far this season. Port receipts 22,657. United States port stocks, 955,416.

Prices unsettled.

New Orleans, La., January 12.—During the early morning hours in cotton today strong bulge featured the trading but after mid-session much liquidation on market caused moderate reaction. New high record levels were reached by all sections of the market. Foreign cables showed a firm tone and 15 to 20 points with March at 27.03.

General buying opened the trading of the day, buyers being encouraged by a much higher Liverpool than day, further reports of more business in Manchester and a lack of anything alarming in the foreign situation. The advance continued on expectations of bullish week-end statistics until the trading positions were 42 to 44 points up but after the first of the week-end statistics appeared the upward movement was checked and the second half of the session brought reaction of about a dollar a bale at their widest.

Expectations were for very large mill takings but better cottoned to the gains of American cotton in the world at 255,000 bales against 301,000 last week and 282,000 this week last year. Selling was heavy for a while following the posting of statistics but the market was steady on the close owing to evidence of a good spot demand in the interior. Total spot sales in the market of the south today were rounded at 23,521 bales against 15,167 yesterday.

ADVANCE FOLLOWS
COTTON REACTIONSWeekly Review Shows Prices
Were Carried to New High Levels.

New York, January 12.—Early week reactions in the cotton market were followed by advances which carried prices into new high ground for the season. Nervousness and uncertainty over the situation as to war reparations and European political conditions generally had a disturbing effect during the earlier part of the week and Monday. May contracts here sold at 26.52.

Realizing appeared to meet increased offerings as prices approached the 27 level, but they were absorbed on comparatively moderate reactions and a wave of general buying started Thursday which carried the market rapidly upward, with May selling at 27.30 during today's trading. It looked as if people who had previously hesitated to buy, or had sold in anticipation of the advance, French troops into Germany would have a depressing effect on the world's markets, were buying on the advance late in the week.

The occupation of Egypt by the French without any apparent disturbance and the better tone which developed in the foreign exchange market, evidently promoted more confidence in European affairs, while the buying movement was stimulated by better trade reports from Liverpool. The latter were supposed to be a reflection of improving trade conditions in the Far East and cable advice received here from Manchester today said that India was buying in larger quantities and paying better prices. These private reports were confirmed to some extent by official cables from Liverpool to the cotton exchange, describing the Manchester cloth and textile trade as active and the advance in the market here was accompanied by reports of both foreign and domestic trade buying.

The census report Monday showing 3,078,197 bales gained up to January 1 was considered just about in line with previous estimates. The late week advance may have been influenced to some extent by reports of continued mild winter weather in the south and deficient rainfall in the southwest as unfavorable preliminary new crop figures.

New cotton and figures showed a falling off in spinners' takings which contributed to reactions and there were also reports that private returns indicated smaller domestic mill consumption for December than November.

Awarded Syndicate
Headed by Morgan.

New York, January 12.—Award of the $50,000,000 Cuban 5 1/2 per cent bond issue to a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. with a bid of 96.77 or more than 3 points above its nearest competitor; lower prices for United States government bonds and irregularly higher prices in the general list were the chief features of today's bond market.

The relatively high bid of the Morgan firm for the Cuban loan was construed as an indication of greatly improved conditions in that country and was reflected in a sharp 1/2 point gain in the old Cuban government 4 1/2 per cent bonds. Gains of 1 to 1 1/2 points were also registered by Dominican Republic 4 1/2 per cent, and United States of Brazil 7 1/2 per cent bonds. Their highest price in over a year, and United Kingdom 5 1/2 per cent duplicated their previous high record.

United States government bonds, with the exception of the new 4 1/2 per cent, which advanced 4 cents to $100, were reactionary. The first 4 dropped 2 1/2 and the third and fourth 4 1/2 to 16 1/2 and 16 3/4, the other new issues registered losses of 6 to 10.

Chile Copper 7s and 8s each soared to new high records, the former gaining a point and the latter 1 1/2 to 1 1/2 points. Bethlehem Steel 5s, Remington Arms 6s and General Electric 5s each yielded a point.

A break of 3 points in New Haven 6s was followed by a sharp reaction, statistics showing that not only had the road failed to earn fixed charges last year, but that the profit and loss account had been run up to $40,000,000. West Shore 4s, Southern Air Line consolidated 6s and St. Louis and Iron Mountain 4s were among the few strong spots.

New cotton and figures showed a falling off in spinners' takings which contributed to reactions and there were also reports that private returns indicated smaller domestic mill consumption for December than November.

The journalism class of the Evening School of Commerce, of Georgia Tech, visited The Constitution Friday night in connection with their work and to see just how a newspaper is edited and published. The general impression gained by most of the students was at first of awe. This rapidly changed to interest when they saw how the different machines were operated and they were pretty soon on quite familiar terms with the hustle and bustle of the busy editor's office as well as with the composing room and other departments. A million questions were asked and more were answered.

The press room proved very interesting and it was there that every one had to see how the funny papers were colored. Reading the news

The class has been pretty thoroughly schooled in the editing and publishing of a newspaper and it was just such a trip as this that the students most needed to illustrate the intricate details of the workings of a real newspaper to complete the mental picture in their minds which the instructor

CRISSINGER NAMED RESERVE BOARD HEAD

Farm Bloc Welcomes Appointment—Sees End of Rapid Deflation.

BY CLAYTON WHITEHILL.
Washington, January 12.—Members of the farm bloc, republican and democratic, are welcoming the appointment of Comptroller of the Currency D. R. Crissinger to the governorship of the federal reserve board, as marking the end of the policy of rapid deflation to which the farm bloc have been attributed in a large degree.

Like the appointment of Milo D. Campbell, of Michigan, as the "dirt farmer" member of the board, although he is not so well known as Crissinger. However, the combination is expected to meet the approval of the senate Saturday. Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, head of the senate bloc, told the United News Friday that "the appointment of Comptroller Crissinger is most gratifying to the farmers and to the business men of the west."

"Mr. Crissinger knows the farmer and is a farmer himself. He does not bring to the office of governor of the federal reserve board the atmosphere of Wall street. He has a broad national view."

"Although I do not anticipate financial crises such as we have recently passed through, and I do not think that there is so much complaint by the farmers against a policy of rapid deflation at present because credit conditions are easier; nevertheless I believe that in the event of an emergency Crissinger would take a broader view than his predecessor. Furthermore, I am confident that he will not consent the blunders made by W. P. G. Harding."

HARRIS WANTS ARSENATE PUT ON FREE LIST

Washington, January 12.—Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, today requested President Harding that calcium arsenate, used to fight the cotton boll weevil, be placed on the tariff free list under his direction authority given in the new law.

Senator Harris also conferred with the United States tariff commission of the chemical schedule, and it was stated that calcium arsenate was not specifically mentioned in the tariff act, but that it might be included as a "chemical compound" which has a duty of 25 percent ad valorem.

Commissioners said there had been no actual importation of calcium arsenate and no duty had actually been imposed, but that the commission was now investigating the matter.

OLDEST ODD FELLOW IN COUNTRY DIES

Have It Done Right

In an audit of your business you want, above everything else, accuracy. You want to know all the facts.

A partial or an incorrect audit by an inexperienced accountant is often worse than no audit at all.

For accuracy, for ALL the facts, be sure you employ a firm of established reputation, that KNOWS its business. Have it done right; there is no other satisfactory way.

'JOKE' IS FATAL TO PERRY BURRUS

Boarder in Macon Home Was Shot Accidentally With Gun Thought Unloaded.

Macon, Ga., January 12.—Perry Burrus, 28, superintendent of the Cotton States Seed and Fertilizer company, who was accidentally shot on Monday night by Mrs. T. A. Fuss, died at 10:30 o'clock tonight at a local hospital. He was an athlete and former Georgia Tech student.

Burrus, who lived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fuss, was late for supper Monday night, and Mrs. Fuss told officers, the latter reported, that she playfully pointed a pistol at him when he entered the house, and scolding him for being late, said: "I've a good mind to shoot you." She snatched the trigger at the time, not knowing she said that the pistol was loaded, the officers reported.

T. Ashby Fuss, manager of a local sporting goods house, told the police that he loaded the pistol Monday evening as a protection against burglars. He said that the pistol had been a plaything for their child, but he placed the gun on a mantle and forgot to tell his wife that he had loaded it. No warrant has been taken out in connection with the case.

DIVISION OF PART OF LEVY ESTATE IS MADE FRIDAY

New York, January 12.—Surrogate Foley today ordered division of $130,000 of the $1,000,000 estate of the late Marshall P. Levy, cotton broker of New York, New Orleans and Atlanta, among three of his children who had filed suit to test the validity of his will, which cut them off with $10,000 each.

The three, Mrs. Jetta L. Lichtenstein of New Orleans and Milton P. Levy and Mrs. Florence L. Lipman of this city—recently agreed to drop their suit in consideration of a payment of $100,000. The settlement was held up, however, until the surrogate could decide whether they should forfeit their $10,000 bequests. He decided they should not.

Mr. Levy left the bulk of his estate to his widow, Mrs. Ella Levy, of New York, and five other children.

Lanier Marriage Tangle Be Aired In Macon Today

All Is in Readiness for Legal Battle of "Deserted Bride" for Alimony.

Macon, Ga., January 12.—(Special.)—With all the principals in the city, everything was in readiness tonight for the first legal skirmish of the battle of Lanier vs. Lanier for "good and sufficient alimony," the hearing being scheduled to be taken up before Judge H. A. Mathews in Bibb superior court tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Peggy Lewis Lanier, accompanied by her friend, Miss Mary Jane Allen, and her attorney, James H. Dodgen, of Atlanta, arrived in the city tonight and registered at the Hotel Danvers. The young women were immediately to their room and all Mrs. Lanier would say was:

"There is not a thing new, that I know of. We have come down here for the first court trial, and are ready to go through with it. Sidney is my lawful husband, and he has not lived up to his side of the bargain."

Attorney Dodgen said he has secured affidavits from Rev. Horace Smith, pastor of Calvary Methodist church, who on November 5 performed the marriage ceremony for Miss Lewis and Sidney Lanier, and from Arthur Marbut, marriage license clerk, to the effect that young Lanier was perfectly sober when the marriage was performed and when the license was sold.

What counter showing will be made by the defense was not disclosed by Dr. J. D. Lanier, father of Sidney, at Sidney Hatcher, attorney for the defense. The answer to the plaintiff's plea will not be filed until tomorrow morning, Dr. Lanier said, however, he expected to make a speech that "would open their eyes."

In addition to the suit for alimony, Mrs. Lanier is suing Dr. J. D. Lanier for $50,000 for alienation of affection, claiming he is responsible for his son refusing to live with her as her husband.
